My husband and I were stopped in traffic on our way to a movie when I noticed a duck in someone's yard with a long trail of ducklings behind her, walking right toward the busy street! We pulled over so that we could stop traffic for them if we had to. The ducks were spooked by us at first and retreated to some tall grass, so we waited a little while. Sure enough, they came back out and started heading toward the road again. As soon as we saw that they were definitely stepping out to cross the street, we waved for the cars to stop and escorted the ducks safely across. By this time, it was too late to make it to the movie that my husband had been quite anxious to see, but he didn't mind at all. I love his kind heart.

Furry Feature:

CALLIE is smart, playful and loving cat, boosted and spayed, who just turned 5. Unfortunately, a birthday in a shelter is never really a happy birthday. While most people look for kittens, shelter staff and volunteers know that the older cats have just as much love to give. Though they might be older, they're still hoping for a forever home: a sunny place to sleep, a warm lap to curl up on, the freedom to roam around. A shelter cage is no place for a birthday party. Ever the optimist, Callie is still waiting and wishing for a family to choose her and finally take her home.

UPDATE ON ANGEL: STILL AVAILABLE

ANGEL is a 16-month-old purebred white German Shepherd. She is no princess, but your house could be her castle! She is friendly and very active. Angel does need some obedience training, so part of the adoption process would be a free dog-obedience class. Angel is not used to young children, cats or small dogs. She came to us from the beautiful South Shore, and until two two weeks ago she spent her days tied to a tree. Then one day a special person came along and gave her the opportunity to find a new and loving home. Angel is spayed, boosted and parvo-tested.

EDITOR'S UPDATE

I've had two sets of friends return to Wolfville recently from successful musical tours and they've been nothing but smiles ever since. It must be pretty darned amazing taking the stage in other provinces, sharing the songs we've all come to love. This musical Valley around us provides so many appreciative venues where artists can hone their crafts and build their libraries. When they do go on the road, stories are bound to occur.

This is the premise of a new segment on page 9 called Backstage Pass compiled by local singer/songwriter Mike Aube. It'll be fun to read about some of the little things that must make touring and performing such a trip.

Yes, there's never a shortage of possible stories and content to fill our pages. Because we're tired of not being able to fit everything that comes to us, we're actively looking for ways to increase our pages to allow for more room. I keep telling myself it'll come eventually...

One thing we certainly did manage to find room for was the fracking poster on page 9. There is a public forum on June 18th at the Wolfville Farmers' Market to discuss the realities of the recent fracking efforts in Hants County and the plans that were in place for Kings County. We encourage you all to attend it, the safety of our precious water table should be the concern of everyone.

Till next time everyone, enjoy the issue!

For the past six years, a group of dedicated artists and community members have put together a series of art installations in Kings County called Uncommon Common Art. Thanks to social media, this dynamic grassroots project has garnered attention from people across North America and Europe.

Visitors come to the Valley for many reasons, and Kings County is a key destination for two: the stunning natural environment that is the Minas Basin Valley, and the abundance of creative people who live here. The Uncommon Common Art project is designed to bring these two elements together.

The Uncommon Common Art project invites residents and visitors to explore and discover the Valley. The project could be described in a countless number of ways: as an art exhibit in nature, or an art scavenger hunt; art geocaching or a community art project; an eye-spy art project or a meeting of hiking and art. While it means something different to each participant, it is bound to involve and intrigue everyone who takes part.

This year's artists include

CENTRE STAGE THEATRE PRESENTS: NANA'S NAUGHTY KNICKERS BY KATHERINE DISAVINO

Law student Bridget Charles is about to move in with her Nana in New York for the summer. However, she soon exposes a shocking side of her Nana. It seems her sweet Nana has a little secret she's been keeping under wraps. Will Bridget be able to keep it together, or will she get her knickers in a knot and file her briefs? Will her Nana get arrested, or worse, evicted?! This fast-paced, laugh-out-loud comedy is suitable for teens and adults, and will keep you in stitches.

Nana's Naughty Knickers plays on Friday and Saturday evenings from from June 7 to July 13 with two afternoon matinee performances on June 30 and July 7. Tickets are $12 and $10. ## SUCCESSFUL ASU BOOK DRIVE

University students go through a lot of books. Have you ever wondered where all the unwanted books go after the school year?

The ASU runs the "Better World Book Drive" in order to ensure that used books are taken care of in an environmentally friendly fashion. We collect books from various locations on campus, as well as the leftover books from the Dump and Run.

Books are either re-used or recycled. The reused books are either sold and donated. Better World Books sells these books and donates proceeds to literacy partners worldwide. Reusing books is an excellent method of waste prevention, reducing the overall volume of waste created, in addition to supporting many literacy initiatives. Books deemed unsaleable are recycled. Recyclers report that the efficiency of recycling a book yields 97% of that book as usable fiber.

This year, a total of 1,363 books were collected. The following chart below indicates the environmental impact the book drive had this year.

The chart states various ways that the book drive aided the environment. Notably, the book drive saved 21 trees and two cubic yards of landfill space!

This book drive is just one way the ASU and Acadia University are working to reduce our ecological footprint. We will host another book drive in the fall.

Acadia Hockey to honour Midget Wildcats

The 16th annual Acadia Axemen Celebrity Hockey Dinner will have a local flavor this year. Head Coach Nick Greenough and the Valley Wildcats of the Nova Scotia Major Midget Hockey League will be honoured at the event in June.

The Wildcats captured their first Nova Scotia Major Midget Hockey League championship and followed that with the Atlantic Midget title. Acadia head coach Darren Burns says, "We are extremely proud of the Wildcats season. Watching many of these players develop at our Acadia hockey camps and graduate from the Acadia Minor Hockey Association has been exciting. Congratulations to Nick, his staff and the players on a fantastic season." The Wildcats' lineup consisted of mostly players from the Annapolis Valley.

Toronto Maple Leaf and NHL great Wendel Clark headlines this year's event, set for Thursday, June 20th at Acadia Arena in Wolfville. TSN personality Paul Hollingsworth returns to host the evening which includes an impressive silent auction display and prize draws. Tickets are available at the Acadia Box Office. Order by phone at 542-5500 or 1-800-542-8425 and online <https://boxoffice.acadiau.ca>.

the WHO'S WHO: ZANNE HANDLEY: In a Class All Her Own!

When I was a video-store rat many years ago, I use to serve this adorable couple, Zanne and Ian. They were always smiling, and Zanne had the most incredible set of dreadlocks I'd ever seen. We talked movies, art, literature, politics, current events and even fun stuff like cartoons and food. I've recently become reacquainted with them, and I'd like you meet Zanne Handley.

Zanne is the French and Social Studies teacher at Bridgetown Regional High School, as well as Advisor for the Gay-Straight Alliance at BRHS. She loves all aspects of her job, but those lunch-hour conversations with students take the cake because "no one is officially teaching but everyone is learning."

Outside of work, Zanne loves to write. She writes to keep herself company, to rant, to explore her beliefs and values, to sort through her conflicts, and tell the stories that fire her imagination. Writing is the way she makes sense of her world. And what a world it is! Zanne is one of the smartest, most headstrong, independent-thinking people I know. She is the kind of persistent, worldly, feminist woman I'd want to be if I weren't already a persistent, worldly, feminist man.

Zanne's passion for writing led to the publication of her first novel, Pilgrimage. She is giving a reading/signing at Box of Delights in Wolfville on June 29. Stop by the bookstore to meet this wonderful woman and pick up her novel. It's a fantastic read!

This novel and Zanne's own conversion to Islam are connected. She had an idea for a book with a Muslim character and started learning as much as she could about Islam. Somewhere in the middle of her research, she realized, "This is what you've been seeking, Zanne! This faith is for you." Zanne says, "I feel in many ways that this book came through me rather than coming from me, and I believe my duty as a writer is, as Julia Cameron puts it, 'to show up at the page'. If I show up with humility and willingness, open to the process of creating, then in a sense what chooses to be written is none of my business."

Zanne grew up all over Canada, with some time in Europe. She majored in History at Acadia and stayed there for her Education degree. Within a week of being at Acadia she met her husband, Ian, and they've been inseparable ever since. Zanne and Ian have a beautiful five-year-old princess named Zofya and a newborn prince of just 6 weeks named Taymor, plus sheep, a horse, chickens, barn cats and a big white dog. Zanne and Ian have been together for nearly 10 years and she's as madly in love with him today as she was when they first got together. Their love is quite infectious!

Zanne loves this area: the friendliness, the sense of community and people's willingness to lend a hand. "That came out quite strongly with writing Pilgrimage: my husband designed the cover; my friend Kate hosted the initial book launch; an English teacher I love and respect, Maryanne MacNeil, suggested a title; Acadia prof Hassouna Moussa did a ton of translation for me . . . Not to mention all my friends who have read, commented, suggested and encouraged throughout the whole process. There is no way I could have done all this by myself, and I think that's a huge part of living in the Valley."

Congratulations on your accomplishments with your writing, your family and the inspiration you give to so many students and friends with your wisdom. You are a true teacher and teachers make all things possible. Best of luck with your work, Zanne!

Stories from Valley musicians compiled by Mike Aubé

Bob Federer is a well-known Valley musician, offering his amazing keyboard chops to various projects including Titanic Proportions and my upcoming album, Folk The System. He also runs ShooterBug Photography with his partner Colleen Dagnall. Here is his story of an interesting character he met at a show:

"I was setting up my gear in this seedy little club in Toronto. It was still early so there were only a few people there. This crusty older man calls me over to his table. His eyes were a little glazed over and his clothes had seen better days, but he ordered me a 20-cent beer, so I sat down. He then started his story and it was obvious that he had thought about it a lot, planned it down to the last detail and I wasn't the first to hear it.

'It's going to take us a while - we'll hop a train and we'll have to ride the fourth rail', he said with determination. 'We're going to break my brother out of the Big House. And we'll eat beans - beans and bologna sandwiches.' He then firmly put his hand on my arm and leaned in closer to emphasize his next thought. 'We'll all have flashlights, but only mine will have batteries, cuz I'm the leader'. And with that, I had to go. It's amazing, the people you meet on the road."

ROB BREZSNY'S FREEWILL ASTROLOGY

HOROSCOPES FOR THE WEEK OF JUNE 13TH, 2013

***** © COPYRIGHT 2013 ROB BREZSNY *****

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Irish poet Richard Brinsley Sheridan didn't confine his lyrical wit to well-crafted poems on the printed page. He used it to say things that would advance his practical ambitions. For example, when he first met the woman who would eventually become his wife, he said to her, "Why don't you come into my garden? I would like my roses to see you." That's the kind of persuasive power I hope you will summon in the coming days, Aries. According to my analysis of the omens, you should have it in abundance. So what's the best use of this mojo? Is there anything you would really like to sell? What new resources do you want to bring into your sphere? Who do you want to convince?

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): In The Book of the Damned, Charles Fort revealed one of the secrets of power. He said that if you want power over something, you should be more real than it. What does that mean? How do you become real in the first place, and how do you get even more real? Here's what I think: Purge your hypocrisies and tell as few lies as possible. Find out what your deepest self is like -- not just what your ego is like -- and be your deepest self with vigorous rigor. Make sure that the face you show the world is an accurate representation of what's going on in your inner world. If you do all that good stuff, you will eventually be as real and as powerful as you need to be.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Long after the artist Amedeo Clemente Modigliani died, his paintings sold for millions of dollars. But while alive, he never got rich from doing what he loved to do. He expressed frustration about the gap between his ambitions and his rewards. "I do at least three paintings a day in my head," he said. "What's the use of spoiling canvas when nobody will buy anything?" I hope you don't arrive at a comparable conclusion, Gemini. It's crucial that you NOT keep your good ideas bottled up in your imagination. You need to translate them into practical actions, even if there's no immediate or obvious benefit in doing so. Expressing yourself concretely has rarely been more important than it is right now.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): In 1967, dissidents dreamed up a novel way to protest America's horrific Vietnam War. They marched to the Pentagon, the military's headquarters, and performed an exorcism to purge the place of its evil. With the power of songs and chants, they invoked magic spells designed to levitate the 6.5 million-square-foot building into the air. Their plan didn't quite work in a literal way -- the Pentagon remained firmly fixed to the ground -- but the legend they spawned was potent. When I heard about it years later, it inspired me to become an activist. I see myth-making as a worthy goal for you right now, Cancerian. Dream up an epic task or project that will fuel your imagination for a long time.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): In 1926, surrealist artist Max Ernst painted "The Blessed Virgin Chastising the Infant Jesus in Front of Three Witnesses." It shows Mary vigorously spanking her son as he lies on her lap. Nowadays, the image doesn't seem nearly as scandalous as it did when it first appeared. Even some Christians I know find it amusing, welcoming the portrayal of Jesus as a genuine human being with lessons to learn. What would be your equivalent of creating a cheeky image like this, Leo? How could you achieve cathartic release by being irreverent toward something or someone you respect? I recommend it. (See the image: tinyurl.com/SpankingJesus.)

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It's prime time to promote cross-cultural liaisons and interspecies relationships, Virgo. I encourage you to experiment with hybrids and facilitate the union of diverse interests. You will be working in alignment with cosmic trends if you strengthen the connections between influences that belong together, and even between influences that don't know they belong together. So see what you can do to facilitate conversations between Us and

Them. Negotiate peace treaties between Yes and No. Look for legitimate ways to compare apples and oranges.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Gonzo columnist Mark Morford wrote a list of liberated behaviors he wants to cultivate. Since you're in the emancipatory phase of your yearly cycle, I invite you to try some of his strategies. 1. Have a gentler grip. Let go of tight-assed attitudes. 2. Make deeper penetration. Don't be satisfied with surfaces. 3. Raise the vibration. Isn't it a waste of precious life energy to mope around in a sour and shriveled frame of mind? 4. Appreciate appreciation. Treat gratitude as an emotion of the same caliber as joy. 5. Cultivate ecstatic silliness. Develop a blissful ability to take everything less seriously. 6. Drink the awe. Allow astonishment to seep in. (More: tinyurl.com/morfordjoy.)

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): From an astrological perspective, now would be a good time to go on a meditation retreat for a few days or make a pilgrimage to your ancestral homeland. You would generate just the right shifts in your brain chemistry by doing something like that. Other recommended adventures: reviewing the story of your entire life from your first memory to the present moment; writing a brief letter to the five people you have loved best, telling them why you've loved them; spending a day outside of time, when you don't consult a clock or use electronic media for the duration.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Sagittarius comedian Steven Wright says he took a class in speed waiting. "Now I can wait an hour in only ten minutes," he brags. I think you will have the same knack in the coming days, Sagittarius. Your patience is likely to be much more effective than usual. Results will come faster and they'll be more intense. The only catch is that you will really have to be calm and composed and willing to wait a long time. It won't work if you're secretly antsy and only pretending to be imperturbable.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Let the boundaries blur a bit, Capricorn. Don't stick too rigidly to the strict definitions. Play around with some good old-fashioned fuzzy logic. The straight facts and the precise details are important to keep in mind, but you shouldn't cling to them so ferociously that they stifle your imagination. You need to give yourself enough slack to try open-ended experiments. You'll be smart to allow some wobble in your theories and a tremble in your voice. Magic will happen if there's plenty of wiggle room.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): "One should be light like a bird, and not like a feather," said French poet Paul Valery. How do you interpret that thought, Aquarius? In the book The Science of Self-Control, here's how Howard Rachlin expands on Valery's idea: "We need to be spontaneous, but only in the context of some framework that allows us to attain higher levels of spontaneity; a feather is a slave to the wind, while a bird uses the wind." Take heed, Aquarius! Your creative flights will go further and last longer if you have a solid foundation to take off from.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Let's call today Sigh-Day. Tomorrow, too, and the next day, and the two days after that. During these five Sigh-Days, you should feel free to let out big, deep sighs at a higher rate than usual. Allow yourself to be filled up with poignant thoughts about life's paradoxical mysteries. Give yourself permission to be overwhelmed with emotions that are midway between lamentation and reverent amazement. For even better results, indulge in some free-form moaning during your five Sigh-Days. That'll help you release your full backlog of tension and give you more appreciation for the crazy beauty of your fate. (P.S. Try not to whine, though.)

Lemon Yogurt Tart

Dan Collins | Art Can Cafe |
dancollins@uniserve.com

Good day, folks! Following our desire for the local, seasonal and sustainable at Art Can Cafe, we are excited about the on-coming strawberry crop. This recipe uses strawberries in their raw and natural form, simply rinsed, hulled, sliced, and tossed with a wee bit of sugar to coax out some juice - the nectar which is eagerly soaked up by this delicious lemon tart, and which mingles beautifully with this luscious ice cream.

I recommend making the ice cream a day before, either by using an ice-cream-making device or placing in a small metal container in the freezer and stirring every half hour until the custard has frozen.

Lemon Yogurt Tart

- 1 cup sugar
- 1/4 cup butter
- 1 egg
- 2 tsp plain yogurt
- 1/2 c. milk
- 1 1/2 c. flour
- 1 tsp baking powder
- rind from 1 lemon, blanched in boiling water and then minced finely
- juice from 1 lemon
- 1/4 c. sugar

Cream sugar and butter together. Add blanched and minced lemon rind along with yogurt, egg, and milk. Combine until smooth. Stir baking powder into flour and mix lightly into wet mix. Pour into a buttered 9" fluted tart shell. Bake at 350° for 30 minutes or until a toothpick comes out clean.

Remove from oven and place on cooling rack. While still warm, pierce the surface with toothpick in 20 or so spots. Then glaze with a mixture of juice from 1 lemon and 1/4 cup sugar.

Cream Cheese Ice Cream

- 8 oz. cream cheese
- 1 c. milk
- 1/2 c. cream
- 1 tbsp lemon juice
- 3/4 c. sugar
- 1/8 tsp salt

Mix well and freeze in ice-cream maker or metal bowl in freezer.

Strawberries

1 quart fresh strawberries, rinsed, hulled, halved, and tossed with 1 tsp sugar

Cut tart to desired slice sizes, top with 1/4 cup or more berries, and spoon ice cream on top of berries. Enjoy! And remember to visit us for delicious homemade desserts at the Art Can Cafe in Canning!

MIKE Uncorked:

HERE'S A LITTLE YARN ABOUT SUZIE Q!

Businesses come and go in Wolfville: it's the way things are. I snuck down to Railtown one day to visit the Mystic Meadow and found that it had mysteriously disappeared. In its place was Suzie Q's Boutique, a store which I had frequented in Windsor many times. I was so excited by my discovery that I asked about it around town, but I found that no one really knew that one business had gone and another had sprung up. What better way to let everyone know about this special shop then to feature it and its owner Kimberly Ellis in the Mike Uncorked slot for this issue? What I loved about Suzie Q's in Windsor is the feel, the look, and the smell of the shop, and those things have traveled well to Wolfville.

Owner Kimberly Ellis was a city girl destined for the country life. She tried for many years to live and work in the corporate big-city world, but soon realized that her childhood dream of living in the country and raising farm animals needed to become a reality. Kim says "My love for animals and nature led me to acres of land in Falmouth over 15 years ago."

Before coming to the valley, Kim had purchased her first spinning wheel. She taught herself how to spin; then she started researching the different types of fibre and the animals they came from. She says, "A dual-purpose animal was what I was after. Sheep seem to be on the top of my list and so my artful-farming journey began and I became a sheep farm, fibre artist, and shop owner in 1999."

Soon after, Kim started Suzie Q's Boutique as a women's fashion and accessories store, while also keeping up with customer demand for wool. The shop eventually moved from Gerrish Street to Water Street in Windsor, and now Kim has found her place in Wolfville, where she's neck-deep in dyeing, spinning, and felting. Coming to Wolfville, with its diverse population, many artists and creative folks, just seemed like the natural thing to do. You can find her at the Farmers' Market on Saturdays selling what she loves.

Kim says, "My love for fibres goes further than just a retail location and creative expression. I feel there are strong ties within the agriculture and fibre community that further sustain the need for growing awareness of responsible and sustainable practice within the agriculture community. Previous to opening the store, I was doing some agriculture awareness work for the Federation of Agriculture, as well as inputting data for a nutria management company, so you can see my fingers have never left the farmer community."

Find Suzie Q at Suite #5 in Railtown, Wolfville, or visit her on Facebook. On Tuesday afternoons, from 1 to 4:30, the boutique holds an open circle for anyone who wants to create among friends. The boutique has tons of yarn, plus socks, candles, pottery, artwork, jewelry and more! Stop by this unbe-weave-able store!

A true nature lover, a great businesswoman and a wonderful addition to Wolfville: I'm not pulling the wool.... Enjoy!

~Mike Butler
