EDITOR'S UPDATE

Wow, this is a busy time of the year for everyone. The transition from summer to school is upon us and there's no sign of anything slowing down. I haven't been a student for years now, but I'm still not managing to find enough hours in the day to sleep. I guess the answer is to work smarter, but does that entail getting a smartphone?

Mike Butler's piece on communication (page 13) really speaks to me. Unlike Mike, I do have a cell phone, but it's without all the fancy bells and whistles. The other morning while at breakfast with my parents, amazing folk who I sometimes wait an entire year to see, my mind was racing over emails and messages that had to be addressed. I know for a fact that if I were able to go online at that moment, my head would have been down focusing on the tiny screen and not at all engaged in real conversation. Is it comforting or burdensome to know that, although the summit can become quite close, it's virtually impossible to fully conquer Mt. Email?

I recently ventured down on the dykes to finally visit the Harbour Master, Stephen Wilsack (more on him on page 8). In case you haven't noticed, there's been a Waterworld-esque barge floating and resting in the harbour for the entire summer. He knows it may not be the most esthetically pleasing of vessels, but I give him a lot of credit for actually using Wolfville's most under-utilized resource. This was once a very active harbour, and one that still has abundant potential for recreation, and energy production. The ironic thing is, despite the gorgeous, natural view Stephen has, it's actually been wired with online capabilities! Well, I guess if we are to keep typing away, we might as well do so with an inspiring view as the backdrop.

ON THE COVER

HEAD BANGERS AND ROCKERS... THIS EVENT IS FOR YOU.

Saturday, September 14 marks the first annual Maritime Metal & Hard Rock Festival in the Annapolis Valley. This event is the first of its kind for the region, and it's ready to take that region by thunderous storm. Featuring a stellar lineup of the best of the best Maritime metal and hard rock bands, the event is a celebration of "East Coast loud" in more ways than one. Not only is this the concert to satisfy all those audible cravings for heaviness, but with the option of on-site camping, this is destined to be the party for like-minded folks who share their love of the genres. It will also be the loudest show to ever hit the Valley, so get ready to hear those guitars cry across the mountain and down into the Valley.

Advance tickets and gate tickets are $38.50, all taxes and fees included. Evening passes are available for $26 after 9pm. If you want to camp, it's only $10 per person for the night, and the camping park has flush toilets, hot showers, huge lots and everything else you need to be comfortable during your stay. There is also great canteen food, a convenience store, free parking, loads of nature trails and your choice of camping area. You can be in the thick of it and camp out near the stage, or you can be back in the field where you can actually get some sleep when you need it. The event is also BYO Beverages, which means no overpriced drinks to empty your wallets. You can bring your own food, drinks, chairs, umbrellas, etc. Just no glass at all, please.

RANDOM ACTS OF KINDNESS

Weeding as a random act of kindness? You bet!

I had returned from work early, since the baby was sick (the sitter, too, for that matter). As I stood at the kitchen sink, looking out the window onto our beautiful back yard, my eyes were adjusting to the weed-free patio... My trance reminded me of a scene in the 1987 film I've Heard the Mermaids Singing, although, unlike Sheila McCarthy, I was not in my nightgown.

I don't have the largest patio. But as a recent single parent (my husband now works out-of-province, after years of being unemployed here), I am learning to re-prioritize my young family's daily activities. And weeding is not high on that list! Killing the weeds with a blowtorch had even crossed my mind.

Being French-Canadian, from northern Ontario, I cried out loud: "Tabarouette, check ben ça!" I stumbled outside, so eager was I to check out my naked patio stones. Imagine my sheer delight when I realized the weeds were gone! My hands stroked the stones (yes, the unsightly weeds had been that tall). Kneeling, I was the Pope kissing the stones of an area I had scorned only the day before.

Given my daily musings with colleagues, many have heard me mutter about my long-overdue weeding (and new single-parenting lifestyle). It is with great appreciation that I thank the person(s) for their kindness and green thumbs.

Merci beaucoup!

BACKSTAGE PASS

Stories from Valley musicians compiled by Mike Aubé

Calling all Valley performers and songwriters! I'm looking for your gig stories and stories-behind-the-song. If you have something to share, mail them, along with a high-resolution photo, to mike@mikeaube.com. This week's installment is from a road story I experienced with a Halifax band which will remain nameless to protect the innocent..

A few years ago, we were heading back to the Maritimes after a two-week stint in Ontario and Quebec. We had one last show in Fredericton and a long drive from Toronto ahead of us. The lead singer and I were in one car, while the drummer and bass player were in the other. None of us had much experience navigating the area around Montreal, and he and I made a wrong turn or two, but we made it safely through and onto Hwy 40 toward home. The other car had GPS, so we had faith the boys would make it. Somewhere around Riviere-du-Loup, we received a call from the guys. The GPS had led them on the route that went through the U.S. and they didn't realize it until they saw the signs announcing the upcoming border. Having the typical "supplies and provisions" that many musicians carry, they did not want to risk a discussion with U.S. Customs and reluctantly turned back, taking a four-hour detour and causing them to miss the gig. As they say, technology is great when it works, but in this case technology steered them wrong.

FUNDY FILM BRINGS THE WORLD'S BEST FILMS TO THE VALLEY

The Fundy Film Society is rolling out its 12th autumn season on Sunday, Sept 8, with the series Before Midnight. Before Midnight brings 23 great features and documentaries from a dozen different countries and four continents. Here are just a few highlights of the series:

WADJDA: the first film ever shot in Saudi Arabia, and also the first feature film made by a female Saudi filmmaker.

WATERMARK: a documentary about water, reuniting the duo Baichwal and Burtynsky, who created Manufactured Landscapes.

THE ADVENTURES OF PRINCE ACHMED a special presentation. This is the oldest surviving animated feature film (1926), and features an original score composed and performed live by Small World Project, an award-winning trio from Montréal.

AIN'T IN IT FOR MY HEALTH: A FILM ABOUT LEVON HELM and the introduction of an exciting new Fundy Film series called Weird Wednesday (wW) beginning with two super screenings on Wednesdays, Oct 30 and Dec 11.

Fundy Film 6-Packs (6 for $36) and advance tickets for THE ADVENTURES OF PRINCE ACHMED ($20/$12 for students) will be sold on Saturday, Sept. 7, 10-2 at the Fundy Film table in the Al Whittle Theatre Lobby, and at all Fundy Film screenings from Sept 8-Sept 15.

For complete film descriptions and box-office details check fundyfilm.ca or call 542-5157 and watch for brochures and posters in community outlets.

FURRY FEATURE

FEATURE PET: BOOTS

Boots is a female black and white cat who is about 2 yrs old. She was found in the Wolfville area. Boots has now been tested, spayed and vaccinated and is ready to find her new home.

UPDATE ON MAJA: Still Available

Maja is a black-and-white spayed female. She was unhappy with her previous owners' dog, and they gave her up in hopes that she'd find a less stressful life in a new home, ideally one without dogs. She has been with another cat and young children.

The Unveiling of Work at the Trestle

by Ruth Abernathy

Saturday, September 21, 2:30pm at Wolfville's Waterfront Park.

Work at the Trestle depicts and commemorates T.T. Vernon Smith rebuilding the Grand Pré Dyke section of the Windsor and Annapolis Railway following The Saxby Gale of October 5, 1869. The storm almost brought financial ruin to the railway shortly after its opening on August 19, 1869.

Work at the Trestle was commissioned by Allen Eaves to commemorate his great-grandfather's role in helping economic development in the Annapolis Valley using the latest advances in science and technology.

Wolfville is honoured to receive this generous donation and excited to celebrate Work at the Trestle on Sept 21, followed by a reception at 3pm at the old Wolfville Train Station, now the Town Library.

Later that evening, at 7:30pm at the Al Whittle Theatre on Main Street, the celebration continues with a show entitled "Dominion Atlantic Railway: An Evening of Pictures, Stories and Songs with Gary Ness and the Mud Creek Boys." This show is sponsored by the L'Arche Building Campaign. Tickets are $25 and are available at Box of Delights / 542-9511

ARGUABLY, THIS IS THE BEST TIME OF THE YEAR TO BE IN THE ANnapolis VALLEY. STUDENTS OF ALL AGES HAVE BEGUN THEIR LATEST CHAPTERS AND THE RESULTING CHANGE OF ENERGY IN THE AIR IS EASILY NOTED. THIS AIR IS STILL WARM, BUT IT'S NOT HARD TO IMAGINE THAT CHANGE WILL SOON BE ON THE CUSP. THE BLEND OF STUDENTS AND TOURISTS BUSY-UP THE STREETS LIKE REDS AND WHITES RIPEN ON THE VINE; THE ABUNDANT MARKETS OVERFLOWETH. OF COURSE, THESE ARE ONLY SOME OF THE REASONS...

WHAT MAKES THIS TIME OF YEAR SPECIAL FOR YOU AND YOUR BUSINESS?

Ocean Zn Giftshop

437 Main Street, Kentville, 790-6901 / campingmama1978@hotmail.com

The summer and fall seasons are the most special for my business and my family because the weather pulls us to the abundant beaches all around us. This is where the inspiration for my shop was stirred up! Also, these 2 seasons are when I attend the Kentville Farmers' Markets in Centre Square; here I meet interesting people from all over the world who share my passion for sea glass and other beach-combing treasures.

This shop has been a dream turned reality for Michelle Fahie, a mother of three. In September 2012 she walked away from the stability of a continuing care position to start this ocean-themed jewelry shop.

Lost Art – 210 Old Post Rd., Wolfville, 542-2934 / cybermapper@gmail.com • When not creating maps, cartographer Marcel Morin harvests his culinary garlic, and is now taking orders for 2013, pick-up or delivery. Garlic: $9/lb (delivery may be extra).

Highlander Strength and Fitness – Unit 5, 11 Calkin Drive, Kentville, 300-9305 / iwanttotrain.com / highlander-strengthandfitness.ca • There's a new fitness facility opening in Kentville! Come to our open house, Sept. 7, 10am-4pm, and see what we can do to help you reach your fitness goals! Enter our prize draw to win a month of training!

Jane's Again Boutique – 390 Main St., Wolfville, 542-1671 / janesagain.com • At Jane's, we love this time of year! Looking forward to cozy scarves and sweaters with crisp, clean air! The perfect combination in the perfect place!

Pete's Wolfville – 360 Main Street, 697-3331 / petes.ca • It is a busy & exciting time for us at Pete's as we begin the local harvest! We would like to welcome back all students & invite them to come check out our loft- a yummy study spot!

Harvest Gallery – 462 Main St. Wolfville, 542-7093 / harvestgallery.ca • September marks the beginning of another busy show season at Harvest Gallery. Up next, "Seeing Red" new paintings by Lynda Shalagan. Join us Saturday, September 14th 2-4pm for the opening. Meet the artist and enjoy light refreshment. Welcome Acadia students!

Join me in taking the Buy Local pledge.

Robert Pope: METAMORPHOSIS

August 14 – September 29, 2013

Organized by the Art Gallery of Nova Scotia. Curated by Tom Smart. Social realist painter Robert Pope (1956-1992) is best known for his collection of paintings that explore his experience of healthcare and healing as a cancer patient. Pope graduated from Acadia University with a degree in mathematics and physics and went on to study art at NSCAD University in the fall of 1978.

Pope's cancer diagnosis in 1982 caused him to recalibrate his artistic project in order to reflect on the very personal circumstances and anxieties he was facing as a result of his diagnosis and the subsequent treatments he underwent. His cancer series movingly portrays his experiences as a cancer patient and gives a voice and visual form to the experiences of suffering fellow patients. This exhibition celebrates the artist and his belief in the power of art as preventive medicine that generates hope, healing and inspiration.

A curatorial talk by Tom Smart will be presented on September 27 at 2pm. All events are free and open to the public.

MIPAC is pleased to announce its 2013-2014 Entertainment Series.

Mermaid Theatre of Nova Scotia's acclaimed flagship production, The Very Hungry Caterpillar and Other Eric Carle Favourites, will launch the sixth season. This family treat has been on tour around the world for the past 15 years, and local performances always sell out quickly. MIPAC is delighted to host The Irish Rovers' Farewell to Nova Scotia tour with a not-to-be-missed matinee performance marking the Rovers' final visit to the region before they retire. In addition to its Family Fare Series, MIPAC will introduce the Nova Scotia Fare Series. With a focus on local talent, these concerts will showcase diverse Nova Scotian artists, including country troubadour Ryan Cook, perennial favourite Stan Carew, blues artist John Campbelljohn, the vibrant drum group SQUID, Celtic-influenced Cassie and Maggie MacDonald, and a dynamic Songwriters' Circle with rising stars Ria Mae, Carmel Mikol, and Kim Wempe.

The coming season will also feature MIPAC's first international artist. Based in North Carolina, Donna Washington, a mesmerizing African-American storyteller, spent her childhood travelling the world with her military family. Her exposure to diverse cultures and the richness of the oral tradition honed her love of stories. By popular request, the Truro-based Maritime Marionettes will return to the Family Fare Series, and audiences of all ages will be treated to a performance by the celebrated Québec company Bouge de là. The award-winning dance and visual arts innovators will present The Studio in the only Nova Scotia stop on their first Maritime tour.

New for this season, MIPAC will offer special ticket package prices. Patrons can save $5 per person when purchasing tickets to all five Family Fare Series shows, and $9 per person with the purchase of tickets to all three Nova Scotia Fare shows.

Tickets for all shows are on sale now. They can be purchased online at Ticketpro.ca, by phone at 1-888-311-9090, or in person at Windsor Home Hardware and all other Ticketpro outlets. For more information about the season, visit mermaidtheatre.ca/MIPAC.

THE WHO'S WHO STEPHEN WILSACK

AN INNOVATIVE GUY

Leave it to the computer tech guy to come up with an innovative way to handle a Who's Who interview. I sent Stephen Wilsack my Who's Who questions to answer (via email is always the way they arrive), but what does Stephen do? He sends a video of himself answering the questions! It was original and fun, just like Stephen, and a new approach to how this process works for me.

Stephen Wilsack is from Steller-ton. He attended Acadia, taking business and passing with flying colours. Stephen owes a lot to Acadia but above all things, that's where he met his wife Jane Anne. They've been married for 27 years!

Stephen's business path began after he helped computerize many Acadia facilities in the '80s. After doing some video work with Acadia, Stephen felt that computers and technology was the way to go. He took a huge step and a hard drive forward, and now Stephen operates Innovative Systems at 8985 Commercial Street, New Minas, a computer tech company that does webpage design, computer repair, servicing and training, video surveillance cameras and installation, data recovery and Internet setup. As well, Innovative Systems is the electronic-waste resource facility for the Annapolis Valley, where you drop off old radios, computers, monitors, stereos and other electronics for proper disposal. Steve has been an entrepreneur for over 30 years and loves the social interactions, the constant change, and the tech savvy world he works in.

Check out the Innovative Systems website at www.IH.ca, where their motto is "Whether you're looking to capture your daughter in a bumblebee costume for school stage performance, sun-light exposure on a newly developed product or business, perhaps there's an extraordinary local event happening in your community... the possibilities are endless. Seek no further, you've come to the right place, celebrate your story with us."

The Innovative Systems website has links to many fascinating videos shot around the area and is full of great information about the business. I even found videos of my cousin Melissa singing and my friend Jeremy Novak emceeing an event. It was awesome!

For fun—not that his work is not fun, but outside of work, Stephen has become a Wolfville harbour man! Life on the harbour has included swimming, paddling, and interacting with folks. And it was wonderful to learn that Steve was one of the innovative minds behind the mysterious raft you see parked in the Wolfville harbour! This raft was constructed, sailed down the Cornwallis River on a 7-hour tour (eat your heart out, Gilligan) and now rests in the harbour, complete with Wi-Fi and full video security! Only in Wolfville eh?

Stephen mentioned in his video email that one of his hobbies is collecting old technology and putting it to use at the Innovative Systems Museum of Technology Through the Ages, complete with old radios and used computers from many years ago. Thank you, Steve, for doing your part for the planet and making it educational for others.

Stephen's plans for the future include growing his business with emphasis on educating the public about technology and its importance to our society, as well as leaving a vast digital footprint for future businesses and clients to grow from. Steve has a mission to make this area great! He does not like when people have to leave this area because of lack of education or employment, so he wants to do his part to help others.

Trust me, Steve: after our unique interview for this article, I can assure you, you're helping others become more educated about the technology available to them. Thanks, you Innovative Guy!

Lord Arthur Savile's Crime

What comes before marriage? Murder, at least according to Lord Arthur Savile. Shortly before his marriage to the lovely Sybil Merton, Lord Arthur, a well-intentioned but gullible British aristocrat, learns that murder is definitely in his future while hosting a palm-reading session in his London drawing room. Feeling duty-bound to get the foretold event over with, he plots to carry out the deed with the help of his butler, Baines, and the bungling anarchist Winkelkopf. A series of blunders and misunderstandings follow and double entendres abound in this witty stage adaptation of Oscar Wilde’s short story. Due to its mature content and loud noises, this play is not recommended for children under 13.

The stage version of Lord Arthur Savile's Crime was written by Constance Cox and is directed by Paul Abela.

Cast members (in order of appearance): Marc Hetu, Mike Kenny, Michelle Grandy, Robert Racine, Beth Irvine, Sharon Burnett, Thea Burton, Tim Hughes, Nicole Myra, Tim Hawkins.

Lord Arthur Savile's Crime plays on Sept. 13, 14, 20, 21, 27, 28, 29m, October 4, 5, 6m, 11, 12, 18, 19. Showtime 8pm / 2pm matinee on Sept. 29 and October 6

Tickets $15/$12 (Call 678-8040 for reservations).

ROB BREZSNY'S FREEWILL ASTROLOGY

HOROSCOPES FOR THE WEEK OF SEPTEMBER 5TH, 2013

© COPYRIGHT 2013 ROB BREZSNY

ARIES (March 21-April 19): "No regrets? Really?" asks author Richard Power. "I have regrets. They are sacred to me. They inform my character. They bear witness to my evolution. Glimpses of lost love and treasure are held inside of them; like small beautiful creatures suspended in amber." I think you can see where this horoscope is going, Aries. I'm going to suggest you do what Powers advises: "Do not avoid your regrets. Embrace them. Listen to their stories. Hold them to your heart when you want to remember the price you paid to become who you truly are." (Find more by Richard Power here: tinyurl.com/RichardPower.)

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): UrbanDictionary.com says that the newly coined word "orgasnom" is what you call the ecstatic feelings you have as you eat especially delectable food. It's derived, of course, from the word "orgasm." According to my reading of the astrological omens, you are in an excellent position to have a number of orgasmic-like breakthroughs in the coming week. Orgasnomns are certainly among them, but also orgasaurals, orgasights, and orgasversations -- in other words, deep thrills resulting from blissful sounds, rapturous visions, and exciting conversations. I won't be surprised if you also experience several other kinds of beautiful delirium.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): If you were about to run in a long-distance race, you wouldn't eat a dozen doughnuts. Right? If you were planning to leave your native land and spend a year living in Ethiopia, you wouldn't immerse yourself in learning how to speak Chinese in the month before you departed. Right? In that spirit, I hope you'll be smart about the preparations you make in the coming weeks. This will be a time to prime yourself for the adventures in self-expression that will bloom in late September and the month of October. What is it you want to create at that time? What would you like to show the world about yourself?

CANCER (June 21-July 22): The Constitution of the United States is the supreme law of the land. It's the foundation of the most politically powerful nation on the planet. And yet when it originally went into effect in 1789, it was only 4,543 words long -- about three times the length of this horoscope column. The Bill of Rights, enacted in 1791, added a mere 462 words. By contrast, India's Constitution is 117,000 words, more than 20 times longer. If you create a new master plan for yourself in the coming months, Cancerian -- as I hope you will -- a compact version like America's will be exactly right. You need diamond-like lucidity, not sprawling guesswork.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): There are two scientific terms for tickling. "Knismesis" refers to a soft, feathery touch that may be mildly pleasurable. It can be used to display adoring tenderness. The heavier, deeper kind of tickling is called "gargalesis." If playfully applied to sensitive parts of the anatomy, it can provoke fun and laughter. Given the current planetary alignments, Leo, I conclude that both of these will be rich metaphors for you in the coming days. I suggest that you be extra alert for opportunities to symbolically tickle and be tickled. (P.S. Here's a useful allegory: If you do the knismesis thing beneath the snout of a great white shark, you can hypnotize it.)

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): In his "Song of the Open Road," Walt Whitman wrote some lyrics that I hope will provide you with just the right spark. Even if you're not embarking on a literal journey along a big wide highway, my guess is that you are at least going to do the metaphorical equivalent. "Henceforth I ask not good fortune -- I myself am good fortune," said Uncle Walt. "Henceforth I whimper no more, postpone no more, need nothing. Strong and content, I travel the open road."

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Mystical poet St. John of the Cross (1542-1591) was one of Spain's greatest writers. But not all of his work came easily. When he was 35, a rival religious group imprisoned him for his mildly heretical ideas. He spent the next nine months in a ten-foot by six-foot jail cell, where he was starved, beaten, and tortured. It was there that he composed his most renowned poem, "Spiritual Canticle." Does that provide you with any inspiration, Libra? I'll make a wild guess and speculate that maybe you're in a tough situation yourself right now. It's not even one percent as tough as St. John's, though. If he could squeeze some brilliance out of his predicament, you can, too.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): The American naturalist John Burroughs (1837-1921) traveled widely and wrote 23 books. "I still find each day too short for all the thoughts I want to think," he testified, "all the walks I want to take, all the books I want to read, and all the friends I want to see." Let's make that longing for abundance serve as your rallying cry during the next two weeks, Scorpio. According to my analysis of the astrological omens, you have a cosmic mandate to push to the limits -- and sometimes beyond -- as you satisfy your quest to be, see, and do everything you love to be, see, and do.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Punk icon Henry Rollins did an interview with Marilyn Manson, rock and roll's master of the grotesque. It's on Youtube. The comments section beneath the video are rife with spite and bile directed toward Manson, driving one fan to defend her hero. "I love Marilyn Manson so much that I could puke rainbows," she testified. I think you will need to tap into that kind of love in the coming days, Sagittarius: fierce, intense, and devotional, and yet also playful, funny, and exhilarating. You don't necessarily have to puke rainbows, however. Maybe you could merely spit them.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): If you want to know a secret, I talk less crazy to you Capricorns than I do to the other signs. I tone down my wild-eyed, goddess-drunk shape-shifting a bit. I rarely exhort you to don an animal costume and dance with the fairy folk in the woods, and I think the last time I suggested that you fall in love with an alien, angel, or deity was . . . never. So what's my problem? Don't you feel taboo urges and illicit impulses now and then? Isn't it true that like everyone else, you periodically need to slip away from your habitual grooves and tamper with the conventional wisdom? Of course you do. Which is why I hereby repeal my excessive caution. Get out there, Capricorn, and be as uninhibited as you dare.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Germany's Ostwall Museum displayed a conceptual installation by the artist Martin Kippenberger. Valued at $1.1 million, it was called "When It Starts Dripping from the Ceiling." Part of it was composed of a rubber tub that was painted to appear as if it had once held dirty rainwater. One night while the museum was closed, a new janitor came in to tidy up the premises. While performing her tasks, she scrubbed the rubber tub until it was "clean," thereby damaging the art. Let this be a cautionary tale, Aquarius. It's important for you to appreciate and learn from the messy stuff in your life -- even admire its artistry -- and not just assume it all needs to be scoured and disinfected.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): In her novel White Oleander, Janet Fitch suggests that beauty is something to be used, "like a hammer or a key." That's your assignment, Pisces. Find practical ways to make your beauty work for you. For example, invoke it to help you win friends and influence people. Put it into action to drum up new opportunities and hunt down provocative invitations. And don't tell me you possess insufficient beauty to accomplish these things. I guarantee you that you have more than enough. To understand why I'm so sure, you may have to shed some ugly definitions of beauty you've unconsciously absorbed from our warped culture.

Apple Beignets with Creme Anglaise

From Dan Collins of Slowfire Chef Services

As the apple harvest begins to fire up, we all get anxious for our favorite apple experiences out of the kitchen. I don't believe anything surpasses a good apple pie fresh out of the oven, but sometimes it is fun to try something different to celebrate the arrival of this delicious fruit. This fabulous dessert can be a simple afternoon treat with tea, or served as the finale to a fancy meal with company.

Fritter Batter

- 2 egg yolks
- 2/3 cup milk
- 1 tbsp melted butter
- 1 cup flour
- 1/4 tsp salt
- 1 tbsp sugar
- 2 egg whites beaten to soft-peak stage

Combine first six ingredients and whisk until well incorporated. Then lightly fold in beaten whites until just mixed with batter

Creme Anglaise

- 6 egg yolks
- 500 ml whipping cream
- 1/2 cup sugar
- 1 tsp Grand Marnier
- 1/2 tsp vanilla, or scraped fresh vanilla bean from 1/2 pod
- 1 tbsp fresh orange juice

Heat cream until steam appears from surface, then add a bit at a time with a whisk to the yolks in a stainless-steel mixing bowl. Add remaining ingredients and cook over simmering water in a double boiler until sauce coats the back of a spoon, usually 5-10 minutes. Place the bowl with sauce in an ice bath to arrest the cooking process, then refrigerate and let cool completely.

To assemble dessert, peel 2 or 3 apples and remove the core with a corer. Slice the apple in 1/2 inch slices to form apple rings and dredge in flour. Heat fryer to 325 degrees. Coat the apples with fritter batter and fry until golden brown on both sides. Remove from fryer and place on paper towel until all apple rings are cooked.

Place two or three apple doughnuts on a dinner plate and drizzle with 1/4 cup creme anglaise. Shake cinnamon icing sugar over the top just before serving. These are best consumed fresh and while still warm, as they do not hold over well. They are terrific with your favourite ice cream!

Creme anglaise should be used within three days of making it, and should be kept refrigerated. It is also lovely drizzled over freshly sliced peaches or any other fresh fruit. Bon appetito from the Slowfire Chef!

New Affordable Housing and Homelessness Report Published

The Housing First Association of Kings County is pleased to announce that the Final Report from our HRSDC and Kings County funded Homelessness Partnership Strategy project is complete and available for download on our website, www.housingfirstkc.ca

One of the main goals of this project was to engage more people in taking responsibility for shaping our municipal planning policies, building standards, and citizen networks that will help us all build caring prosperous communities and neighbourhoods. What distinguishes this report from many studies of the past is that it was done with input from a broad range of Kings County citizens—many of whom had been excluded from executive planning and decision making processes in the past. We heard the stories of people who own properties and want to provide affordable space but can't, and we heard the stories of people who have been marginalized and in some cases rendered homeless. All of these stories realistically illustrate the difficult social/economic challenges—and opportunities that confront all citizens living in Kings County.

Please make some time to visit our website and download the report. You can also read about how our partners and volunteers have come together to create the Kings County Housing Helping Tree and you can see a video summary of the Building Caring Prosperous Communities Forum. We are sure many people will be pleased with all the good effort and the encouraging news that continues to emerge—news such as Kings County Council passing a resolution to continue working with the Union of Nova Scotia Municipalities to develop practical solutions to the housing and neighbourhood development challenges facing us.

MIKE Uncorked: THE TALK OF THE TOWN!

What a terrific week! It was busy and very fulfilling for so many reasons. One thing I thought about a lot this week was the concept of communication. In 2013, there are so many ways to communicate information to people (cell phones, emails, texting, etc) and yet there are still gaps that make for some very funny or scary situations, like missed appointments or text messages with sexual spelling errors. I still believe that personal interaction, face-to-face communication far exceeds the technology offered to us, but we are spoiled by those things.

I am going to make a confession: I don't have a cell phone! Yes, it's true! I am a very busy man about town and everyone thinks I should have a cell phone, but seriously folks, I do not need one. I get by quite well without one and I have done that for many years. I plan my life ahead of schedule enough that I don't need such spontaneous communication from a cell phone. I am at work six days a week and people can reach me there, or I'm not too hard to find elsewhere! I love emails, I love people actually coming to visit me, and I love the random chats on the street when I'm out running errands. I think having a cell phone would make me less social (just for spite mostly), and nobody wants that!

When I am out running said errands, I notice a lot of teenagers and many adults either with their heads down while they text or looking all over the place while talking on their cell phones. There's no face-to-face interaction as they walk by; have people forgotten how to do that? I know there are emergencies and schedules and conflicts and things that require people to talk on their phones a lot, but raising your head to smile and watching where you're walking would be better than smashing into people and being rude. Wouldn't it?

But my number-one pet peeve, besides call waiting, is when people talk on their cell phones in the line-ups at the grocery store or other retail outlets as they're being checked out! It is disrespectful, rude and unnecessary! They babble on (usually quite loudly), and instead of calling that person back, they resort to hand gestures and charades to communicate with the cashier... It's disgusting! If you do this, stop!

A new fleet of students has arrived in Wolfville, many for the first time, and we have to be able to communicate the ins and outs and important features of our community to them. This needs to be done with handshakes, eye contact, and head-nods, with a focus on their needs.

The other day I heard a student ask a long-time female resident of Wolfville, "Where is the Blomidon Inn?" She replied, "Down the street. You have a phone with Internet, don't you? Look it up online!" Her tone wasn't rude, but she was in too much of a hurry to offer good, clear directions and time! It was sad, so I followed the student and gave him better directions. I also mentioned the vallevents.ca website, the Grapevine, a couple of local open mics and a few other restaurants for them to try. It was about a five-minute conversation, and I think both Filipe (from Brazil) and I benefitted from it.

I live in a world where I light whole houses via email at work, where I plan out my weekend through facebook feeds, and where, if I weren't at a computer most of the day, I'd miss out on a lot of things going on around me, but I still know how to communicate on all levels. It's a convenience, not a necessity. So next time you're out for a walk, leave your cell phone at home, keep your head up and interact. You never know what might happen!
