THE ACOUSTIC MARITIA MUSIC FESTIVAL

July 20, 21 & 22nd, 2012 5701 Hwy 215, Kempt Shore, Hants County, NS

his is the eighth year for the Acoustic Maritime Music Festival and every year it gets bigger and more exciting. The Festival site overlooks the beautiful Minas Basin with 1000 feet of beach frontage and 20 acres of camping sites. This year we have already booked: Russell deCarle (Prairie Oyster lead singer), J P Cormier, Matt Minglewood, Doris Mason, Lennie Gallant, The Saddle River String Band, The Hupman Brothers, Irish Mythen, Ryan Cook, Rob Lutes, Mike Milne, The Stone Sparrows, Ian Sherwood, and more to come. This festival appeals to singer/ songwriters as well as fans as the talent is always world class and the workshops are a true learning experience. Gates open for early bird festival camping Monday July 16th. Please pass on the dates to your friends; we'll make this year the best yet.

New Leadership - A Vibrant Future

Outgoing WBDC President Rick Morse congratulates 2012-2013 WBDC President Suzanne Balcom in downtown Wolfville.

WOLFVILLE – The Wolfville Business Development Corporation (WBDC), at its annual general meeting Wednesday, June 13, 2012, elected a new President and Board of Directors and declared confidence in Wolfville's commercial development future.

Suzanne Balcom was elected President of the WBDC succeeding Rick Morse, General Manager of Cochrane's Pharmasave at last evening's meeting. Mrs. Balcom was born in Edmonton and spent much of her early career in Vancouver as an accomplished television and radio actor. She and her family relocated to Wolfville ten years ago and today comanages the Main Street Dental Clinic.

"I believe in building bridges between people, opening communication lines and promoting mutually beneficial relationships with the Town of Wolfville and Acadia University that will be of lasting benefit to this community," said Mrs. Balcom. "There is a renewed sense of optimism and buzz in Wolfville; we need to keep the momentum going. It's Wolfville's time and I am proud to be part of it."

The annual meeting business also included presentation of the audited financial statements illustrating a small surplus at the year ending March 31, 2012 and year over year growth in capital funds designated for future investment in strategic projects to enhance Wolfville's commercial core.

Bernard Smith, General Manager of Halifax's North End Business Association and former Executive Director of the Spring Garden Road Merchant's Association was the meeting's guest speaker. Mr. Smith spoke about ensuring your downtown core has the right mix of merchants, creating an outstanding customer service experience and keeping Wolfville in the public consciousness.

"Go out and seek retailers to fill in the gaps and try to find some "sparkplugs" that have particular drawing power", said Mr. Smith. "Make shopping in Wolfville an experience; support one another, you are all on the same team."

During the proceedings, retiring directors Pam Townsend, Mary Ann Marissink and Peter Herbin were acknowledged for their service. Peter Herbin, owner of Herbin Jewellers, was given special recognition for not only being a founding member of the WBDC over 30 years ago but also for his continuous service and contribution as the longest serving Board member.

The Wolfville Business Development Corporation is an independent corporation that represents the interests of Wolfville businesses and business people. It is funded directly by Wolfville businesses and works in partnership with the Town of Wolfville, Acadia University and business owners. WBDC promotes Wolfville through marketing initiatives aimed to create a positive profile for the Town and increasing business activity.

THE GRAPEVINE ASKS:

What is this paving?

This paving (on the way to the Acadia Farm on the dyke fields) is for javelin but it still needs to be surfaced with Mondo covering in the next few weeks, hopefully, weather permitting. There will also be an area for shot put and discus throwing (concrete circles).

The runways for long jump and pole vault were paved earlier and were surfaced last week and are located adjacent to the track behind Alumni Hall, just on the other side of the fence around Raymond Field.

Soon, Acadia will be a facility that can host track meets with all events.

HUB Public Event

A Hub is a shared workspace with added value. It is a venue where location-independent entrepreneurs gather to work, share ideas, learn from each other, help each other, find new clients, generate new ideas, and use shared facilities. The world-wide Hub network (the-hub.net) also aims to contribute to a greener future through its activities.

Most Hubs exist in big cities - the now 3-year old Halifax Hub (thehubhalifax.ca) was the first Hub in North America.

We believe that there are lots of innovative and creative folks in the Annapolis Valley who would like to benefit from being part of such a community. We aim to generate a series of Hub venues throughout the Valley. Read more on TheHubAnnapolisValley.ca. and on our Facebook page.

We invite everyone to a free public meeting to explore ideas about this plan. Please come to the Wolfville Farmers Market, Friday June 22, 1:15-3:45pm.

Fundy Rocks

The Fundy Rocks Group presents the $2^{\rm nd}$ Annual Rockhounds' Gathering at Cape Blomidon Provincial Park on July $13^{\rm th}$ - $14^{\rm th}$. Camping for the event at Blomidon is encouraged and the week-end events are also open to non-campers.

All activities are open to those interested in the many facets of rockhounding along the Cape Blomidon and Cape Split Peninsula, whether one is experienced or new to the hobby, at no additional cost to participants. The event is organized by Fundy Rocks, a non - profit group led by local rockhound and hiking enthusiast Chris Sheppard who has made over 200 treks along the shores in the past three years and posts weekly photographs of adventures and the scenic beauty this area has to offer.

A Campfire Presentation on Friday Evening at 6:30pm is an informal Information session and discussion with members of Fundy Rocks and master Rockhound and Lapidary Robert Wayne Baird of Rob's Rock Shop. We will have fun chatting about the adventures and excitement of rockhounding.

Experienced local rockhounds will be on site to tell stories, offer advice and to discuss local rockhounding experiences. A collection of impressive local specimens will be on display. Last year participants were astounded by the range and quality of Blomidon amethysts, agates, and the rare Golden Flame Agate, found only here, unique in the world.

Guided rockhounding treks are planned for Saturday and Sunday, weather permitting. The Parksponsored hike on Saturday will start at 1:30pm and follows 2 km of the shoreline from the lower gates of the Park. Sturdy footwear is required and hikers need to bring water.

For more information and to learn more about Fundy Rocks please follow Fundy Rocks Page on Facebook.

BMO Mud Challenge

On behalf of the Town of Wolfville, we would like to invite you to participate in this year's annual BMO Mud Challenge. This year's event will include the Mud Obstacle Course Challenge, Parade of Mud Challengers, and a Mud-Free Dunk Tank, on Friday, July 27th from 6-9 PM.

The BMO Mud Challenge is a fun obstacle course designed to raise money for the Mudley Fund and this year the Acadia Shinerama Campaign. To participate, we encourage you to create a four person team to represent your business, organization, or group of family or friends. The cost of participating is only $100 per team (pledges or other fundraising endeavors are also encouraged). Funds raised in 2012 will be made available to Wolfville residents requiring financial assistance to participate in recreational activities; and this year will also support Acadia Shinerama in raising funds for Cystic Fibrosis research and treatment. Winners of the Mud Challenge take home the coveted BMO Mudley Trophy. Points will be awarded for the obstacle course performance, team spirit and fundraising efforts.

The maximum number of teams will be 12 so we look forward to hearing from you before the end of June 30th to secure your place in the event. If you are interested in participating or would like more information please contact Meghan Todd: shinerama@acadiau.ca.

ACADIA PERSPECTIVE: Your Brain on Books

ne of the most, if not the most, important skills that a child acquires during development is learning to read. The ability to read begets new knowledge, as children transition from learning to read to reading to learn. From a practical standpoint, the ability to read is a necessary skill for employment. Those with poor literacy skills generally experience economic disadvantages, which very often have negative effects on one's physical and mental health. While most children will learn to read with relative ease, there will be those who will struggle. Unlike many skills that children acquire, reading requires explicit instruction. Researchers and educators have debated for years about the best way to teach reading, but there is now general consensus that children must gain a sense of the sound structure of language (i.e., the phonology), in order to translate letters on the page into sounds, and such sounds into words. In fact, deficits in phonological skills, such as blending individual sounds to form a word or removing individual sounds from a word, are seen in the vast majority of children with developmental dyslexia, a childhood reading disability that often persists into adulthood.

Research being conducted by

Caoimhe McWilliams, age 6, is wearing the special cap used to record EEG.

Dr. Randy Lynn Newman, a member of Acadia's Psychology Department, is aimed at better understanding the development of phonological skills and how these skills predict future reading success. To achieve this goal, Newman and her colleagues use traditional measures of reading ability, such as vocabulary and passage comprehension tests, but also record brain activity using electroencephalography (EEG). EEG is measured by placing a special cap, lined with electrodes, over the head. A small amount of gel is inserted in each electrode in order to pick up electrical activity generated by the brain. EEG is commonly used in research labs at hospitals and universities and is completely non-invasive. By placing a time stamp in the EEG recordings each time a word of interest is presented, Newman can observe the brain's response, so-to-speak, to reading or hearing the word. Newman is interested in observing changes in the brain's response as children develop into early fluent readers.

Newman and her three honours students, Amanda Yaworski, Becca Webster, and Natasha MacInnis, are now testing children from 4 to 8 years of age. Children visit the research lab on two separate occasions. The first time, the children complete traditional measures of language ability. The length of this first session varies according to the child's age and skill level. During the second visit, children complete an auditory-picture matching task while their brain activity is measured. This session lasts approximately 45 minutes. All children receive a prize for participating and parents/ caregivers are compensated after each visit to the lab.

The study has generated a lot of interest after being mentioned in Valley Family Fun, a web-based resource for families living in the Annapolis Valley. Many parents have brought their children hoping to foster an interest in science. The study will continue to run throughout the summer and into the fall. In order to participate, children must be right-handed, have normal or corrected-to-normal vision and hearing, be a native-speaker of English, and have no history of learning or neurological disability.

For those interested in learning more about the study please contact Dr. Randy Lynn Newman (randy. newman@acadiau.ca; 585-1405). This research was approved by Acadia's Research Ethics Board and is funded by a grant from the Harrison McCain Foundation.

Acadia News (as taken from acadiau.ca):

Cummins & Burns Set To Lead Axemen (June 14, 2012).

Director of Athletics Kevin Dickie announced the contract extensions of Axemen Hockey head coach Darren Burns and Football head coach Jeff Cummins. Acadia's longest serving coaches (Burns 12 years, Cummins 10 years) will continue to lead their successful programs.

Minister MacKay Announces Investments (May 28, 2012).

Three Government of Canada investments ($665,000 in total) linking Acadia University and the Winery Association of Nova Scotia will work to provide economic and business development opportunities for the Annapolis Valley. The goal of the newly-established Acadia Centre for Rural Innovation (ACRI) will be to facilitate industry engagement in three key sectors: tidal energy; agri-food; and information and communications technology (ICT).

$2.7 Million Will Increase On Campus Living (May 28, 2012).

There will be up to 300 more students living on campus, thanks to a $2.7-million repayable loan from the province. President Ray Ivany was quoted, "Our first-year student numbers have increased by 30 per cent in the last three years and we simply could not handle the demand for on-campus housing with Cutten House off-line".

Silverberg Gives Acadia Extensive Book Collection (May 18, 2012). David Silverberg said he wanted to give back to Acadia, where he served five years as the university's first artist-in-residence. So, he donated his collection of nearly 1,000 fine art books to the climate-controlled Kirkconnell Archive Room. They are available to students and the public.

ARIES (March 21-April 19):

Swans, geese, and ducks molt all their flight feathers at once, which means they may be unable to fly for several weeks afterwards. We humans don't do anything like that in a literal way, but we have a psychological analog: times when we shed outworn self-images. I suspect you're coming up on such a transition, Aries. While you're going through it, you may want to lie low. Anything resembling flight -- launching new ventures, making big decisions, embarking on great adventures -- should probably be postponed until the metamorphosis is complete and your feathers grow back.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20):

In 2011 car traffic began flowing across Jiaozhou Bay Bridge, a newly completed span that joins the city of Qingdao with the Huangdao District in China. This prodigious feat of engineering is 26.4 miles long. I nominate it to serve as your prime metaphor in the coming weeks. Picture it whenever you need a boost as you work to connect previously unlinked elements in your life. It may help inspire you to master the gritty details that'll lead to your own monumental accomplishment.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): An apple starts growing on its tree in the spring. By early summer, it may be full size and as red as it will ever be. To the naked eye, it appears ready to eat. But it's not. If you pluck it and bite into it, the taste probably won't appeal to you. If you pluck it and hope it will be more delicious in a few weeks, you'll be disappointed. So here's the moral of the story, Gemini: For an apple to achieve its potential, it has to stay on the tree until nature has finished ripening it. Keep that lesson in mind as you deal with the urge to harvest something before it has reached its prime.

CANCER (June 21-July 22):

"Dear Rob: In one of your recent horoscopes, you implied that I should consider the possibility of asking for more than I've ever asked for before. You didn't actually use those words, but I'm pretty sure that's what you meant. Anyway, I want to thank you! It helped me start working up the courage to burst out of my protective and imprisoning little shell. Today I gave myself permission to learn the unknowable, figure out the inscrutable, and dream the inconceivable. - Crazy Crab." Dear Crazy: You're leading the way for your fellow Cancerians. The process you just described is exactly what I advise them to try in the coming weeks.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Picture yourself moving toward a building you haven't seen before. Trust the initial image that leaps into your imagination. What type of path are you on? Concrete or dirt or brick or wood? Is it a long, winding way or short and direct? Once you arrive at the front door, locate the key. Is it under a mat or in your pocket or somewhere else? What does the key look like? Next, open the door and go inside to explore. Where have you arrived? See everything in detail. This is a test that has no right or wrong answers, Leo -- similar to what your life is actually bringing you right now. The building you've envisioned represents the next phase of your destiny. The path symbolizes how you get here. The key is the capacity or knowledge you will need.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): My first poetry teacher suggested that it was my job as a poet to learn the names of things in the natural world. She said I should be able to identify at least 25 species of trees, 25 flowers, 25 herbs, 25 birds, and eight clouds. I have unfortunately fallen short in living up to that very modest goal, and I've always felt guilty about it. But it's never too late to begin, right? In the coming weeks, I vow to correct for my dereliction of duty. I urge you to follow my lead, Virgo. Is there any soul work that you have been neglecting? Is there any part of your life's mission that you have skipped over? Now would be an excellent time to catch up.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Here's my nomination for one of the Ten Biggest Problems in the World: our refusal to control the pictures and thoughts that pop into our minds. For example, I can personally testify that when a fearful image worms its way into the space behind my eyes, I sometimes let it stimulate a surge of negative emotions rather than just banish it or question whether it's true. I'm calling this is to your attention, Libra, because in the weeks ahead you'll have more power than usual to modulate your stream of consciousness. Have you ever seen the bumper sticker that says, "Don't believe everything you think"? Make that your mantra.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): In the hands of a skilled practitioner, astrology can help you determine the most favorable days to start a new project or heat up your romantic possibilities or get a tattoo of a ninja mermaid. Success is of course still quite feasible at other times, but you might find most grace and ease if you align yourself with the cosmic flow. Let's consider, for example, the issue of you taking a vacation. According to my understanding, if you do it between now and July 23, the experiences you have will free your ass, and -- hallelujah! -- your mind will then gratefully follow. If you schedule your getaway for another time, you could still free your ass, but may have to toil more intensely to get your mind to join the fun.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-

Dec. 21): What is your most hateable and loveable obsession, Sagittarius? The compulsion that sometimes sabotages you and sometimes inspires you? The longing that can either fool you or make you smarter? Whatever it is, I suspect it's beginning a transformation. Is there anything you can do to ensure that the changes it undergoes will lead you away from the hateable consequences and closer to the loveable stuff? I think there's a lot you can do. For starters: Do a ritual -- yes, an actual ceremony -- in which you affirm your intention that your obsession will forever after serve your highest good and brightest integrity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan.

19): As someone who thrives on simple organic food and doesn't enjoy shopping, I would not normally have lunch at a hot dog stand in a suburban mall. But that's what I did today. Nor do I customarily read books by writers whose philosophy repels me, and yet recently I have found myself skimming through Ayn Rand's The Virtue of Selfishness. I've been enjoying these acts of rebellion. They're not directed at the targets that I usually revolt against, but rather at my own habits and comforts. I suggest you enjoy similar insurrections in the coming week, Capricorn. Rise up and overthrow your attachment to boring familiarity.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): The ancient Chinese book of divination known as the IChing speaks of "catching things before they exit the gate of change." That's what happens when a martial artist anticipates an assailant's movement before it happens, or when a healer corrects an imbalance in someone's body before it becomes a full-blown symptom or illness. I see this as an important principle for you right now, Aquarius. It's a favorable time to catch potential disturbances prior to the time they exit the gate of change. If you're alert for pre-beginnings, you should be able to neutralize or transform brewing problems so they never become problems.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20):

Neurophysiologists say that singing really loudly can flush away metabolic waste from your cerebrum. I say that singing really loudly can help purge your soul of any tendency it might have to ignore its deepest promptings. I bring these ideas to your attention, Pisces, because I believe the current astrological omens are suggesting that you do some really loud singing. Washing the dirt and debris out of your brain will do wonders for your mental hygiene. And your soul could use a boost as it ramps up its wild power to pursue its most important dreams.

MIKE UNCORKED: Cool Fun in the Summertime!

ould it possibly be summer ∮already? My nine year old nephew commented over the weekend that he only had one week of school left and then it was summer vacation; his eyes were as big as pie pans and he was grinning from ear to ear. I miss being that age when summer was my ticket to freedom from school work and responsibilities. I grew up, started working all summer and now, I still do that but I've learned to create a happy balance of summer activities plus work and I found myself grinning along with my nephew when he mentioned summer.

What will I do this summer? Well, the town of Wolfville is bubbling with things to do; Farmer's Market's, Walking Trails, Valley Summer Theatre shows at the Al Whittle (can't wait to see Educating Rita), Smokin' Blues Fest 2 at the Fox Mountain Camping Park and other outdoor concerts, Lysistrata at the Ross Creek Centre, Strawberry Socials and so much more! I was browsing the vallevevents.ca website and I lost count of all the wonderful events I want to partake in. Of course, I plan to read a lot during this season (the stack of books is growing everyday), spend time with family and friends and indulge in many of my favorite activities like acting, emceeing weddings and travelling.

I've noticed a lot of posters up around town for summer camps for kids. Some camps are specific to Drama or Music and I highly recommend seeking these out for your kids because it's a great way to meet new friends, learn new things and shape a talent. I wish I had been part of a drama camp when I was growing up... not that I didn't turn out okay! Go to wolfville.ca to download a list of summer camps in the area, there just may be one that changes your child's life! This website is also a nifty tool to find biking routes, walking trails and parks, so you can create your own adventures with friends and family. I also encourage you to visit your local Visitor Information Centre and find new things in this area to see. Pick a museum, park, and restaurant and learn more about the area.

And what summer wouldn't be complete without Yard Sales! I have to confess, I am a yard sale maniac. I am a firm believer that one man's trash is another man's potpourri and I take full advantage of as many yard sales as I can. You can find books, puzzles, dishes, trinkets, slightly used wedding gifts etc. But, I tend to seek out the sales and concerts that are also fundraisers too; this makes me feel good about putting my money to a cause. Check out posters and ads in the newspaper for special yard sales and benefit shows. Enjoy the bargains!

Remember to pile on the sunscreen, be nice to visitors and make them feel welcome, take lots of pictures and make the most of this season. But it boils down to this everyone; be safe and have fun!

Not to be Trifled With

From Nelson Penner of the Black Trumpet Cafe: www.blacktrumpetcafe.com

" t's that time of year again. People have come out of hibernation and found their way onto the strawberry fields.

Whenever strawberry season rolls around it finally truly feels like summer has arrived. This year the warm sunshine we have been having has really solidified the fact. If you're a fellow "SAD" seasonal affective disorder sufferer you'll probably agree with me that the arrival of summer is a very good thing.

My parents took my brother and me picking strawberries when we were kids and its one of those experiences where I am transported back to upon smelling the warm hay and strawberries of early summer. My parent's farm in Berwick is right in the middle of Morse's strawberry fields. Literally in walking distance in almost every direction.

Last year my girlfriend Kira and I helped out in one of these before mentioned fields. I spent about six mornings in the fields and seriously contemplated changing professions on at least five of them. That might have had something to do with the fact that I was stressed about my restaurant at the time, oh right that's all the time, never mind then.

Some foods I find lend themselves better to complex preparations then others. Strawberries seem best in simple preparations. No matter how hard I try I've always failed at coming up with a strawberry dessert that beats the perennial favorite "strawberry shortcake". I do however keep trying. Here is my latest effort.

Chocolate Cake, White Chocolate Mousse, and Strawberry Trifle

- Your favorite chocolate cake - as much as you like
- · Chocolate or orange liqueur – as much as you like
- 1 ½ C. Chopped White Chocolate
- 3 Egg Yolks
- Whipping Cream
- Vanilla
- · Quart Fresh Strawberries
- Whipping Cream
- Vanilla
- Icing Sugar
- * Shaved Dark Chocolate

1 Cube chocolate cake and put in bottom of a martini glass, drizzle with liqueur of your choice.

9 Melt white chocolate over double boiler, whisk egg yolks and then incorporate white chocolate.

 Whip the cream and vanilla U until stiff and then whisk into the egg and chocolate mixture.

Top your cake with mousse 4 cut strawberries over top and finish with the whipped cream and shaved dark chocolate.

Earth Skins: Three Decades of Drawing by Susan Wood

June 18 - August 11, at the Acadia Art Gallery

This retrospective exhibition documents the production of Halifax artist Susan Wood, whose practice is devoted primarily to drawing. Her work of the past decade embodies the idea of finitude, reflecting on mortality and loss. The range of graphic techniques, often on textured handmade papers, begins within the frameworks of geography, museology and botanical illustration and broadens into an appreciation of the drawings as metaphors of entropy and death. Organized and circulated by MSVU Art Gallery with financial support from the Canada Council for the Arts and Nova Scotia Tourism, Culture and Heritage. Curator: Susan Gibson Garvey. Catalogue available.

Artist & Curator in Conversation: July 25th, 2pm Join curator Susan Gibson Garvey and artist Susan Wood will discuss the exhibit.

IMAGINE...The Summer Reading Club

re you looking for interesting and stimulating activities to occupy your children during the summer vacation? Would you like them to benefit from a program that will maintain and develop their reading skills?

It's been proven! Reading during the summer has a positive influence on children's reading skills, regardless of reading level. Reading programs make children aware and motivate them while developing good reading habits: parents and teachers of young readers say so each year. The Summer Reading Club is designed to do just that: create a fun, engaging, and positive reading experience that keeps kids reading during the summer break from school.

Following the national theme of IMAGINE, our libraries will host free programs featuring puppets, bubbles, juggling, and more. Look for a crafty program and Zombie tag for teens; arts and crafts programs; storytimes; and our ending party, Word in the Park in August.

This year the program begins on June 25, and runs through August 18. The program is open to children from birth through Grade 12. Each child or teen that completes the Summer Reading Program will receive a free FastPass from our partner, Upper Clements Parks. Parents can get in on the fun this year as well, with our "50 Things to Do" challenge. Details on the program and summer events are available on our website, valleylibrary. ca, and at your local library or Bookmobile stop. See you this summer!

WHO'S WHO: Ross Chapman: Comedy and.... more Comedy!

"Ross, would you like to be my Who's Who?"

"Like the Who's down in whoville... I am neither tall nor small but I do adore Christmas".

"No, the Who's Who profile in the Grapevine".

"I heard it through the Grapevine once... just once though because I don't understand Russian".

"The Grapevine isn't a Russian paper".

"Oh, so it likes to takes things slow?"

This is a typical conversation with Ross Chapman! There's always a beginning, sometimes a conclusion and if you're not careful, it'll end up being part of a comedy sketch one day!

Ross Chapman grew up in Hubbards and came to Acadia after high school. It was at Acadia that he met some great theatre people and joined an improv team even though he wasn't studying theatre. Now Ross, with his degree in computer science, works at Acadia in the Continuing Education department as the webmaster. But Ross wears many hats, some tall, sometimes a beret, and so many tuques that I've lost count. Ross enjoys music, theatre, comedy, writing, and parenting!

Many years ago Ross replied to an email from Centrestage theatre; they were looking for people to sing in Oklahoma... Ross replied "I'd rather stay close to home, thanks!" Many years and many plays later, Ross met Jeremy Novak and became part of the Gravely Ghost Walk tours, in Wolfville. Ross took on the role of Isaac Chipman and has owned that part since the Ghost Walks began. A new season is starting for the Ghost Walks and it'll be great to work with Ross again as I've been there since day one as well, even if Jeremy doesn't remember.

For the last year or so Ross, with strumming buddy James Griffin-Allwood, has been entertaining the masses with his wit and musical talents at the Open Mics on Tuesdays at TAN Coffee. He's also been onstage at some of the Night Kitchens, worked with Broken Leg Theatre and in recent years, has found a new passion for writing sketch comedy with a small, local group called The Dead Sheep Scrolls. The Sheep will be performing two or three sketches this late summer/fall between Broken Leg and Night Kitchens and Ross is always recruiting new writers and performers for these sketches, if you have an interest. Trust me; you owe it to yourself to work with Ross, at least once!

And all this while trying to be the coolest dad ever and trying not to turn his poor partner into a 'Theatre Widow'.

Ross calls Wolfville home because of the smells and the views. He loves the small town feel but also the population boom during the school year, which makes the town more diverse and vibrant and Ross can't wait to raise his family here. Ross let it slip that he can play trombone. (We'll let it slide for now.) He also got tackled by the Italian Secret Service once (I mean who hasn't?), he gets tremendous stage fright (good thing he has me to wipe away his sweat!) and his first name is actually Kenneth (Danger is his middle name!) ... Now... how can I possible fit those facts into a comedy sketch?

BRAIN INJURY GLOBAL PICNIC WORLD RECORD ATTEMPT IN WOLFVILLE

At noon on Saturday, June 30, the Wolfville Farmers' Market will host a world-record attempt. The Brain Injury Global Picnic will attempt to break the previous Guinness World Record for "Most people picnicking in 24 hours (multiple locations)."

Conceived as a way to raise global awareness about the need for brain injury education by a group of brain injury survivors in the UK, the goal is to have more than 22,232 picnickers gather in locations all across the planet, over the course of 24 hours.

Jane Warren, Wolfville picnic organizer and brain injury survivor, is excited to have a chance to bring this issue to light, since it affects an estimated 2200-3500 people in Nova Scotia each year, or over 30,000 currently living brain injury survivors, according to department of health statistics. Brain injuries are sometimes called "the Hidden Disability," since symptoms are not always apparent, but they can wreak havoc on the mental, social, physical, and emotional lives of those afflicted. Things that many people take for granted, such as the ability to remember numbers, speech, or how to tie your shoes can become large challenges for brain injury survivors.

Those wishing to participate in the world-record attempt picnic should arrive at the Wolfville Farmers' Market outdoor courtyard before noon, when the record attempt begins. To qualify as an official "picnicker," participants must eat two food items and a drink. The items may be shared amongst a group. For example, a family who shares a loaf of bread, a hunk of cheese, and a bottle of water would qualify. Participants can bring their own food from home, but since the market will be open during the picnic, there will be food available for purchase on-site as well. Participants might also like to bring a blanket for comfort sitting on the ground.

A Guinness World Record attempt must adhere to strict guidelines, so event organizers are seeking volunteer stewards to help with recording information, such as maintaining accurate people counts. Participants can follow world record progress at biglobalpicnic.org. To get involved, or for more information, contact Jane Warren: 542-4289 / jakeandjane@ns.sympatico.ca

Our neighbourhood is predominantly comprised of seniors. My two boys (5 and 4) love it though, because they get to have friends of all ages. My younger son has become great friends with our back door neighbor, Al. A few months ago Al (in his 70s) created tickets for my son. He told him, "Any time you want to spend time or have a popsicle, you bring over a ticket and I'll have something for you." Now, whenever my son sees our neighbour, he runs in the house, grabs a ticket, and goes next door. I trust my son to do this by himself and he gets to feel so grown up. It's become their special relationship and their ritual and I couldn't be happier. "Mommy, he really is my good friend!" Hats off to all great neighbours!
