The Starrs Point Loop

David Acton

You're sitting in a bar in New York, or perhaps having dinner with friends in Toronto, when someone asks, "So, what's this place the Annapolis Valley like?" Conversation pauses, everyone turns around, a little panicked and trying to find the right words you mumble, "Ehm, it's beautiful, rural, and unspoiled."

"OK, but there's lots of places like that." You are a little tongue tied, but then you remember Starr's Point Agritourism 'The Loop'.

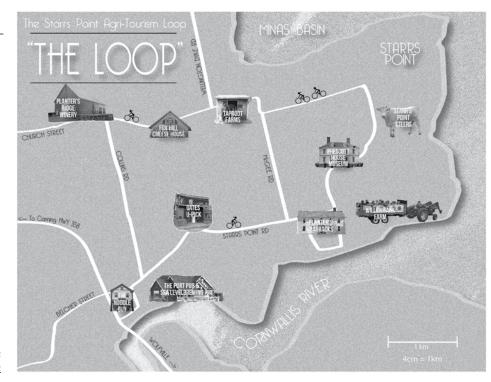

"You can see the highest tides in the world flow past you while having a meal on the best patio in Canada (The Port Pub and Bistro); stay in a 240-year-old boutique B&B that was once a British Army garrison (Planters Barracks); pick apples and get lost in a corn maze (Willowbank Farm); visit a 200-year-old Georgian mansion and gardens, now a museum (Prescott House); buy grass-fed beef (Starr's Point Steers); view pastured pigs and buy organic fruit and vegetables on the honour system (Taproot Farms); and visit a beautiful winery, where you can sample their Nova Scotia appellation wine 'Tidal Bay' (Planters Ridge Winery)."

"Sounds like a long road trip"

"Not at all! You can walk 'The Loop' in 90 minutes (it's only 8 kilometres), or you could cycle or drive it, but you are definitely going to want to stop and take in all the amazing loop destinations! Oh, I forgot in the same 'Loop' there is a microbrewery with an off-license and the beer also flows directly to the taps of The Port Pub! And soon there will be a new microbrewery, as well as a distillery. In addition, you can buy delicious hand-made pasta, visit a cheese house, pick Haskap berries, and buy vintage clothing and antiques. All in an area with gorgeous views, not much bigger than a few city blocks."

Oaklawn Zoo in Aylesford is celebrating a surprise addition to the park: On July 16, the Zoo's Facebook page was abuzz with the announcement that Bow and Mousey, the Capybaras, had welcomed a beautiful new baby! The baby's gender is currently unknown but everyone seems to be doing well. Check their Facebook page for cute baby photos.

National Drowning Prevention Week was held this year July 19-25. Health and Wellness Minister Leo Glavine reminded citizens that, "Basic swimming skills are good for fun, healthy physical activity, and are also important for survival when things go wrong in the water. That's why Grade 3 students in the province are learning basic swimming skills in the Swim to Survive program."

The Kings Volunteer Resource Centre welcomed a new Coordinator on July 22. The Grapevine's own Genevieve Allen Hearn has joined their team! Responsible for delivering client services, building and fostering community partnerships, and the promotion of KVRC programs, Genevieve is enthusiastic about her new role: "Volunteers are what make this region tick. I have worked with volunteers in many different capacities and I'm always inspired by their energy, spirit, and passion. I look forward to connecting community members with worthy volunteer organizations and supporting organizations to effectively harness the potential in community volunteers." The Centre refers, matches, and assists volunteers with placements, provides organizations with the opportunity to share information to prospective volunteers, hosts workshops for those who work with volunteers, and builds awareness in the region about volunteerism. The Sea to Shore Seaglass Festival was held in Kentville July 25 and 26. Despite the rain the Kentville Town Centre Square was packed with ocean-inspired artisans, artists, photographers, furniture and decor creators, and even a few mermaids!

On July 25, the Valley Ghost Walk team defended their title at the Mud Creek Days Mud Challenge. This was not the year to break with tradition and at the end of the day, Mudley the Mud Puddle trophy returned home with Jerome the Gravekeeper for the fourth year

Kentville has taken another step to make an active lifestyle accessible for everyone. On July 27, the town announced that a new chair lift had been delivered and installed at the Kentville Memorial Pool thanks to a donation by the Kentville Rotary Club. The addition of the chair lift has been just one of many changes that have recently taken place in an effort to open up the pool to swimmers of all abilities.

The Banners have been unfurled in Berwick. As of July 30, residents and visitors can check out the new Town of Berwick banners spread throughout the town.

Avon River Days in Windsor was held July 31, August 1, and 2. According to those in the know, the concert and picnic in Victoria park was a success! Great music by Mike Aube, Ivan Dagle, and the Dirt County Confederates was paired with balloons, face painting, and naturally, a sword-fighting clown.

You don't have to go too far into the wild to eat fresh greens these days: The Town of Berwick is in bloom! As of July 31, the Town of Berwick Edible Community Gardens on Mill Street and Rainforth Park are bursting with lettuce, kale, and carrots. Unpredictable Dining by The Edible Sideshow

Scott Campbell

I've had the good fortune to have eaten in some very elegant restaurants but I have to say that I have rarely enjoyed a meal as elegant as the one I enjoyed last Monday night.

Twenty-two lucky diners (including yours truly) met at Danielle Campagne's stylish shop, La Louve Home Interiors (360 Main St., Wolfville). We all got a sneak peek at the Designers Guild's new 2015 fall/winter home décor collection and three lucky guests even got to take home some amazing Designers Guild door prizes provided by La Louve. Outside of the shop was parked the Edible Sideshow Food Truck - the command centre for this imaginative (dare I say 'unpredictable') dinner. Inside the truck, Chef Jeff McLean was busily prepping while the familiar faces of the Edible Sideshow Food Truck personalities, Ursula May and Santiago Garcia, helped make the creation of this elegant, unlikely dinner seem effortless.

Our lavish surroundings were well suited to the dinner that was about to unfold. On arrival we were ushered to the back of the shop where Sommelier Sophia Luckett was preparing a welcoming Mint Julep. This elegant cocktail set the mood for the evening as guests mingled and eagerly awaited dinner. Our co-host, and owner of The Edible Sideshow Food Truck and Binky's Donuts, Lisa Boehme, welcomed us and invited us to all sit at one of the three beautifully set dining tables.

Our first course of the evening was a refreshing salad of Al Stewart's micro greens, strawberries, and tender ceviche scallops served under a mint champagne vinaigrette. Sophia paired this course perfectly with Luckett Vineyard's bright Phone Box White wine.

The main course was a choice of either Grilled Tuna with fresh roasted potatoes in lemon, saffron, sea salt, and olive oil; OR Oulton's Jerk Brisket with jasmine dirty rice and peas with maple mango salsa. Easily the most difficult moment of the evening was deciding which I was going to have. Serving the spicy meat with the fruit salsa and the grilled tuna with the potatoes was unexpected and deliciously creative. Sophia again provided an expert wine pairing with Luckett Vineyard's Black Cab. She aptly described this blend of dried Cabernet Foch, Castel, and Precose grapes as a "persnickety bugger" and it more than stood up to the robust flavours of the

Our dessert was every bit as intriguing as the preceding dishes. A melt-in-your-mouth Chocolate Marscapone Mousse over Grand Marnier laced berries, with a warm Binky's donut on the side, topped off our dinner. And, right on cue, Sophia appeared with Luckett Vineyard's Isolde Ice Wine. This silky smooth golden nectar with notes of lychees, melons, mangoes, and peaches was a perfect pairing to the rich chocolate and sweet berries of our dessert.

What an amazing and imaginative evening of seeing old friends and meeting new ones while enjoying a spectacular dinner in an elegant, and definitely unpredictable, eating establishment. If you'd like to experience an Unpredictable Dining experience yourself then make sure you watch the Edible Sideshow Food Truck's Facebook page for the next one. Cheers!

The next Unpredictable Dining experience will be on Monday, August 24, 2015 at 6:30pm "IN" the vineyard at Gaspereau Vineyards. For more information, visit www.facebook.com/ unpredictabledining.

RECIPE Nana Moira's Banana Bread Submitted by Jesse Gadon

When I was growing up, my Nana was always ready with delicious snacks when we visited. Her Banana Bread was one of my favourites. Nowadays, its simplicity has made it a regular in my own household – and it tastes just as good at home as it does out on a picnic or as a snack a couple of miles into a trail.

- 1/2 C softened butter
- 1 C sugar
- 3 over-ripened bananas (mashed)
- 1 1/2 C all purpose flour
- 1 tsp baking powder
- 1/2 tsp baking soda

Cream butter and sugar with mixer. Add eggs, one at a time and mix with mixer. Add the mashed bananas. Mix well but do not beat.

Fold in dry ingredients. Bake in greased (I'm pretty sure she used Crisco) and floured glass loaf pan at 350 degrees for 50 to 60 minutes.

Come for delicious meals and freshly made treats, served well at our licensed cheerful café with patio or in our cosy, sophisticated dining room featuring a gorgeous glass-encased wine cellar, fireplace, and more.

Have your events hosted and catered by our outstanding new chef and friendly, professional staff.

ALTANTIC LIGHTING HOSTS A SMALL-SCALE FURNITURE DESIGN INSTALLATION BY HOUDINIDESIGN ARCHITECTS

Open almost any design magazine or search "house trends" these days, and you'll end up reading something about the "small house movement." Better designed, more durable, and more ecologically responsible than most Canadian homes, small houses also need something else: furniture that is compact and multi-functional. Enter Atlantic Lighting Studio of Wolfville.

"From the lighting perspective, small spaces offer unique lighting challenges and the trend toward multi-purposing for space and cost savings are an exciting opportunity to educate," Deborah explains.

When the Studio was approached by houd-inidesign ARCHITECTS's Lisa Tondino, they decided they couldn't say no.

"Transience, modularity and form-follows-function are the ideals which inform my furniture design," says Tondino. "My particular focus is on compact, multi-use furniture, millwork, and storage, and on how these designs can keep the cost of a project within budget.'

As a registered architect, Tondino usually designs big — but not this time. "The concept behind our furniture design is to start with the smallest box possible and have the objects unfold to reveal a surprising new setting. Then the object can fold away completely again, and free the space for other uses. We see space as both simple and dynamic. It's a chance to experiment with scale, materiality, and detailing, as well as with the relationship of the human body with the objects in their different states. We selected wood as our primary material for its warmth and for the beautiful ways in which the detailing of it can be done. For us, design and the scale of the human body interacting in space is an expression of culture."

Next time you are on Wolfville's Main Street, view the display of this innovative new furniture and lighting exhibit.

WHY WE LOVE BROOKE DAVIS

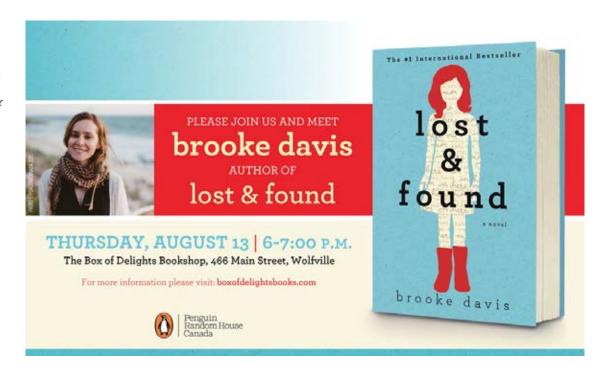

A few summers ago, a lovely young Australian woman who had temporarily moved to the Valley walked into the bookshop. After only a brief conversation about books, reading, and life, we knew right away that she was special and invited her to join our bookselling team. After she moved back to Australia, we kept tabs on her progress and are now very excited to have her back as a published author! Her debut novel (and runaway bestseller!) Lost & Found introduces us to seven-year-old Millie Bird and the two eccentric senior citizens she teams up with after being abandoned by her grieving mother. Please join us in welcoming Brooke Davis back to Wolfville for a reading and signing at the Box of Delights on Thursday, August 13 from 6-7pm. Refreshments will be served.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Charles de Lint is a novelist whose stories are influenced by folklore, myths, and science fiction. In his book Yarrow, a wizardly character named Toby is skilled at conjuring. He can make small objects appear and disappear, for example. But Toby yearns for more. "I want to be magic," he says. "I want to be a friend of elves and live in a tree. I want to marry a moonbeam and hear the stars sing. I don't want to pretend at magic anymore. I want to be magic." If you have ever wished for a comparable upgrade, Aries, now is an unusually favorable time to work on it

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): An imaginative Welsh man named Liam Bennett has developed a "dausage," which is a blend of a doughnut and sausage. One of his most requested treats is pork meat stuffed with strawberry jelly. Even if this novel blend doesn't appeal to your taste buds, it serves as a good prompt for my advice: The coming weeks will be a favorable time to expand your notion of what types of nourishment are fun and healthy for you. I mean that in the metaphorical as well as the literal sense. Experiment with new recipes, both with the food you provide your body and the sustenance you feed your soul.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): In the woods, living matter isn't segregated from the decaying stuff. Rotting tree trunks are host to teeming colonies of moss. Withered stems of ferns mingle with cheerful saplings. Audacious mushrooms sprout up among scraps of fallen leaves. The birds and beetles and lizards and butterflies don't act as if this mix is weird. They seem to be at peace with it. I suspect they thrive on it, even exult in it. That's the spirit I suggest you adopt as you enjoy the paradoxical mélange of your life in the coming weeks, Gemini. Celebrate the mysterious magic that emerges as you simultaneously fade and flourish, decline and increase, wind down and rise up.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Here are some tips on being the best Cancerian you can be: 1. Cultivate your sensitivity as a strength. Regard your emotional vulnerability as a superpower. 2. Nurture yourself at least as much as you nurture others. 3. Learn to know the difference between your golden hunches and the glimmering delusions that your demons stir up. 4. Be kind, but don't be exorbitantly nice. 5. Remember that others' unhappiness is rarely your fault or responsibility. 6. Keep reinventing the way you love yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): "What are the best things and the worst things in your life, and when are you going to get around to whispering or shouting them?" This question was posed by Leo author Ray Bradbury in his book Zen in the Art of Writing: Essays on Creativity. Even if you're not a writer yourself, you will benefit from responding to his exhortation. It's one of the best things you could possibly do to activate your dormant creativity and intensify your lust for life. This is one of those times when working with your extremes is not only safe and healthy, but also fun and inspirational. So do it, Leo! Get excited and expressive about the best and worst things in your life.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): It's time to leave behind the golden oldies. You'd be wise to tiptoe away from tradition, and give the ghosts of the past one last kiss goodbye, and wean yourself from nostalgia for the good old days. Frankly, my dear, you've got numerous appointments with the future, and it would be a shame to miss them because you're mucking around with memories. In the coming weeks — for that matter, in the coming months — you're most likely to thrive if you become an agent of change. And the most important thing to change is your relationship to the person you used to be.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): In Indonesia, the term gotong-royong is defined as the "joint bearing of burdens." In practice it means that you and I and our allies get together voluntarily to help each other achieve a shared goal. It may also be an agreement to provide mutual aid: I help you do what you need to have done, and you help me with my task. Gotong-royong also implies that we enjoy working together. The emotional tone that we cultivate is affection and care. By sharing a burden, we lighten the load that each of us has to bear. I bring this to your attention, Libra, because it's the gotongroyong season for you and yours. Be the ringleader who initiates and sustains it.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): In one of his poems, Jack Gilbert mentions "the incurably sane," who are "uncrippled by beauty" and "unbutchered by love." When I read those lines, I felt a surge of protest. Is there a single person on the earth who fits that description? No! I was miffed by such starry-eyed idealism. Later, though, as I studied the astrological omens for you Scorpios, my attitude softened. I realized that the coming weeks may be a time when many of you will at least temporarily be incurably sane, uncrippled by beauty, and unbutchered by love. If you're one of these lucky ones, please use your blessed grace to spread an abundance of blessed grace everywhere you go.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): If you're not skirting the edges of the forbidden zone, you're playing it too safe. If you're not serving as a benevolent mischiefmaker for someone you care about, you're shirking your duty. Your allegiance should be with X-factors and wild cards. You will thrive to the degree that you cultivate alliances with mavericks and instigators. Are you shrewd enough to mess with time-tested formulas? Are you restless enough to rebel against habits that stifle your curiosity?

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): How to be a Capricorn, according to my Capricorn reader Sadie Kennedy: When you are younger, take yourself too seriously. Look and act older than you actually are as you serve what's most practical. Sacrifice fun and frivolity, working doggedly to achieve the goals you yearn for, until you reach some level of accomplishment. Then realize, as if struck by a thunderbolt, that fun and frivolity have practical value. Begin to age backwards like Benjamin Button as you balance work with play and discipline with leisure. Enjoy the fruits of your intense efforts as everyone tells you how relaxed and supple and resilient you are becoming.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Cracking open the shell of a soft-boiled egg is a tricky task. You must be firm enough to break the shell, but sufficiently gentle to avoid making a mess. If you live in Germany, you have access to a metal instrument that provides just the right measure of soft force. It's called an Eierschalensollbruchstellenverursacher, translated as "soft-boiled egg shell cracker." Your assignment in the coming weeks is to cultivate a talent that is metaphorically similar to an Eierschalensollbruchstellenverursacher. I believe you will need that blend of sensitivity and power on numerous

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Americans often regard Cuba as impoverished and backwards. There is an element of truth in their prejudice, primarily because the U.S. has imposed a stifling embargo on the Caribbean nation for over 50 years. That's why, for example, many Cubans drive cars that were manufactured in the 1950s. But I wonder how my fellow citizens would respond if they knew that in some ways Cuba's healthcare system is better than America's. The World Health Organization recently congratulated Cuba for being the first country on earth to eradicate the transmission of syphilis and HIV from mothers to babies. Can you identify a metaphorically similar situation in your personal life, Pisces? Are there people you regard as inferior or undeveloped who could teach you an important lesson or motivate you to grow? Now is a perfect time to benefit from their influence.

WHAT'S GROWING AT THE HARRIET IRVING BOTANICAL GARDENS: Forest Bathing

Melanie Priesnitz

Research continues to prove that getting outside and connecting with nature is therapeutic on many levels. A simple walk in the woods can reduce blood pressure; boost the body's immune system; and improve energy levels, circulation, cognition, and sleep patterns. Studies show that children who play in the wild have improved academic performance, less symptoms of Attention Deficit Disorder, lower stress levels, and are more creative than kids who don't have regular nature connections.

The Japanese have coined the term Shinrin-yoku which translates to 'forest bathing'. This practice of simply walking in the forest now plays an important role in preventative health care and healing in

It's time you prescribed yourself with a walk in the woods. Visit the Harriet Irving Botanical Gardens and take in our six acres of planted forest within the garden gates or take a longer walk on our adjoining Woodland Trails. If you enjoy hiking with a canine companion, we ask that you walk on the Woodland Trails and not in the Botanical Gardens. The Gardens are pet free to protect our many rare and endangered species, however the Woodland Trails are a great place for your four-legged friends to bathe in the forest with you!

FESTIVAL OF DANCE ANNAPOLIS ROYAL STEPS IT UP FOR 2015

Snansarad

Atlantic Canada's contemporary dance festival showcases productions by renowned new wave choreographers and remounts of Canadian classic modern works.

Following record-breaking attendance for the inaugural FODAR 2014, Festival of Dance Annapolis Royal 2015 has expanded and features a contemporary dance program that you won't see anywhere east of Montreal. FODAR runs from August 20 through August 23 at King's Theatre, Annapolis Royal.

Thursday's opening night lifts off with Program 1, which spotlights remounts of two landmark works from Canada's rich contemporary dance past: the witty and acrobatic "Higher" by the legendary Danny Grossman and "After Godot", Randy Glynn's powerful homage to Samuel Beckett's famous play, Waiting for Godot. The work is presented for the first time with a female cast (Mocean Dance). The dazzling Belinda McGuire gives a virtuoso performance of "Anthem for the Living", the evening's final piece. Program 1 also runs on Saturday, August 22.

Program 2 runs Friday August 21 and Sunday August 23 and features the Festival's marquee event – Toronto-based Coleman Lemieux & Compagnie dancing James Kudelka's hugely popular "The Man in Black", inspired by country and western great Johnny Cash. Kudelka, one of North America's most sought after choreographers, has seen his brilliant contemporary work staged across Canada and the US by companies that include the National Ballet of Canada, Atlanta Ballet, and Chicago's storied Joffrey.

Also on Program 2, Company of Angels returns to the Festival with "Dancing in the Third Act". Randy Glynn's poignant and funny piece about growing old premiered in Annapolis Royal in 2013, opened two major Canadian dance festivals, and ran with a new cast in Orillia in 2014. In June 2015 it was presented with a new cast as part of the City of Toronto's Signature Projects. Glynn has just been shortlisted for the 2015 Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia Masterworks Award for "Dancing in the Third Act". This is the largest arts award for the province and it is the first time that dance has made the final cut in the 10-year history of the Award.

Tickets for Festival of Dance Annapolis Royal are $18 Regular and $12 Youth (18 and under) and are on sale now. They can be purchased online at kingstheatre.ca or by calling the theatre Box Office at 902-532-7704. Learn more about FODAR 2015 productions, dancers, and chorographers at fodar.ca

Festival of Dance Annapolis Royal (FODAR) 2015 is funded in part by the Government of Canada through the Canada Arts Presentation Fund, Canada Council for the Arts, and by Arts Nova Scotia/support4culture.

"We will definitely be using the Grapevine again as well as suggesting it to others. I had at least five people tell me they saw the ad in the Grapevine – and that was without me asking! " - Valerie, Gamespace AV

The WHO'S WHO:

David Howells: The Art of David!

Mike Butler

Well, this is the Great Outdoors Edition of the Grapevine so I decided to combine the best of the indoors and the outdoors by profiling one of the most interesting artists I've ever met - David Howells. I first met David a few months ago when I was on a tour of the Cedar Centre for Active Living in Windsor where David has his workshop and private gallery. But I first encountered David Howells, the artist, when I saw some of his pieces in a Halifax Gallery and I was truly blown away! David's paintings are primarily traditional pastoral landscapes and garden scenes inspired

David is a professional artist living in St. Croix, Nova Scotia. In 1972, David's family emigrated from Leicester, England to Windsor, Nova Scotia. He studied graphic design in Middleton, Nova Scotia and Fine Art at Mount Allison University in Sackville, New Brunswick. David worked as a graphic designer for two years, but realized that he only wanted to paint. It was his calling so that is what he pursued. Knowing that it was a challenging profession, and having a reasonable sense of self-confidence, and a wonderful lack of any meaningful grasp of the realities of painting for a living, he began a long journey. Though it has been an eventful, rewarding, and sometimes stressful roller-coaster ride, it is his true passion and he states that he has no regrets - only gratitude that he can continue.

David says, "One of the greatest rewards is travelling during the good times. Having been treed by a rhino charge in Nepal, hit by a bull in rural India, on a boat that nearly sank off of Thailand and nearly drowned in the Great Barrier Reef, it has been a colourful journey, to say the least!"

And where did that pristine David Howells technique come from? Well, David started painting using only watercolor and designer's gouache, but all of his work since 1986 has been oil on canvas. Though he's traveled extensively, his paintings are primarily landscapes depicting English and Nova Scotian scenery. His passion is in trying to capture the beauty and power in the 'simple and everyday'. David was painting Photorealism at the age of twenty, but over the past 28 years (painting full-time) his style has loosened-up. He often refers to his work as a form of 'tightened Impressionism' due to how his style often reads as a blending of Realism and Impressionism. David's endless fascination with water plays an integral part in the majority of his paintings and its complex, varied and always changing state is both a joy and a never-ending challenge to tackle. After having seen a lot of David's waterworks, it's clear he has a handle on things!

And where has his work been covered? Well, David says, "Coverage of my work has included radio interviews (CBC), several books, magazines (online & print), a feature article by Eastlink Television (available on my website), and most recently, an inclusion in CBC Radio's 2015 Sharing the View Calendar project (in aid of Feed Nova Scotia). My work has been exhibited at galleries in England, the USA, and Canada including two galleries in Yorkville, Toronto. You can find my paintings at Galerie Christin in Toronto and at my own gallery in Windsor at the Cedar Centre for Active Living located at 69 Cedar Street." It's well worth the visit to David's studio to see his works and see him in action at the easel!

David is also the co-founder of the art group, Three Faces of Realism, and he's currently the art director at the Cedar Centre for Active Health & Living where people are free to tour and enjoy the brilliant space filled with David's works. The Cedar Centre is a unique and vibrant destination in itself. The building has a rich history, charm, and character of its own. What Dr. Matthias Jaepel has done with the interior is both architecturally remarkable and admirable (respecting the original structure to such a high degree). David says it's a truly inspiring environment to work in. Being struck with such a wonderful sense of awe, each time he walks through the building to his studio, puts him 'in a wonderful space to start his day.

David states, "It's always a pleasure to show people my work, and my studio is open to visitors. Please feel free to drop by. If you would like to call to arrange a visit, I can be reached by phone 902-798-4700 or through my website at davidhowellspaintings.com, or via email at davidh@eastlink.ca or art.director@69cedarcentre.ca.

Working indoors to create the beauty of the outdoors, with a glorious appreciation for the space around you, and using your talent to let your vision flow freely on the canvas: that's the David Howells way, and it's a beautiful way!

"This article is dedicated to David's Father for all his love and support!"

WOLFVILLE'S BUSINESS BUZZ

A Chat With Hussein Rafih, manager of Joe's Food Emporium 434 Main St, Wolfville / 902-542-3033 / joesfoodemporium.ca

How Long has Joe's been operating in Wolfville?

Originally we started as Elmer's & Casablanca in 1977. In 1989 Casablanca (fine dining) changed to what is now known as Joe's Food Emporium.

What is it like managing such an iconic business in town?

Fun would be an understatement. We employ and manage over 50 employees so there's always a new challenge to face everyday; it keeps my mind sharp.

I take a lot of pride doing this job as it is a business my father built from the ground up. He has big shoes that I intend to fill...that's my goal everyday! Every decision I make I always think "What Would Joe Do?"!

Do you serve local wine? If so, what's in the cellar?

We do serve many local wines:

Grand Pré Winery – L'Acadie Blanc Grand Pré Winery – Maréchal Foch Gaspereau Winery – Pinot Grigio and L'Acadie Blanc

Gaspereau Winery – Maréchal Foch and Leon Millot

L'Acadie Winery – Star (Certified Organic) L'Acadie Winery – Passito (Certified Organic)

We try to rotate through different local wines year to year to offer our customers a variety of selections.

Who created Scott Skins and why are they so popular?

Scott Skins and its' Unique Blend of Spices were created by Joe Rafih and a few members of his kitchen staff in the early 90's (one by the name of Scott). They have become popular because we have always, from day one, used fresh local potatoes and high-quality, non-trans fat oils through the cooking process. We make sure that the price point is affordable for everyone while serving generous portions.

Our valued customers have made Scott Skins popular across Canada and further. Whenever I am travelling and meet an Acadia alumni, they always remember coming to Joe's and having Scott Skins. It's one of those things in life that you have to try at least once.

It's been close to 10 years since Joe's opened the Main Street patio deck. How much has this enhanced the Joe's experience? Do you think the town would benefit from more patios?

People really enjoy the flowers and being able to eat outside on Main Street. We have actually received many cards and letters from guests complementing our patio and how they feel it really adds to the beauty of our town. I feel that every business that could benefit from having a sidewalk patio is taking the opportunity to provide that dining experience for their customers already. We wouldn't want to crowd the street too much, it's kind of a less is more situation!

Seeing as you're a steady, established business, you're a pretty good gauge on visiting tourists. I know they've arrived, but how would you describe this season compared to previous years?

I think the tourist population has definitely increased compared to the last few years. We've had a lot of events in town that have generated more business this year than I've seen in recent years. It probably stems from the value of the dollar & more affordable gas prices. We have seen quite a bit of people from out of town enjoying Wolfville.

As you've heard, the WBDC is in a period of transition. An important membership meeting is planned for Aug. 25. If you're able, would you be interested in attending?

Being a member of the Wolfville business community, I feel it is very important to participate and help the WBDC. Attending meetings would mean that I could voice my opinion, stay updated, and build relationships with other local business owners. I would definitely attend if it aligned with my schedule.

Interview and compiled by Jeremy Novak

PLEASE JOIN US FOR A VERY IMPORTANT WBDC MEETING!

7:00 pm Tuesday, August 25

We are about to start the formal process of re-defining the Wolfville Business Development Corporation. From now until the end of September the Board has engaged consultant Ron Robicheaud to help the WBDC determine the best way to move forward. As members of the Wolfville business community you are invited to a meeting at 7:00 pm on Tuesday, August 25 at the Community Room at the Wolfville Farm Market. Even if you have never attended a WBDC meeting, now is the time to join this very important conversation.

There will be an on-line survey of the business community prior to this meeting, but we feel it is important to gather this group together as we want to share our thoughts, and we want to hear from you directly. If you are a member of the Wolfville business community, have not been receiving emails from us and you wish to receive information about the on-line survey please email the WBDC secretary, Elisabeth Porter at secretary@WBDC.me

We are looking forward to seeing you on the 25th, light refreshments will be served.

VALLEY FAMILY FUN -Into the Wild

Laura Churchill Duke

The ParticipACTION Report Card on Physical Activity for Children and Youth for 2015 was recently released. Despite common knowledge that Canadian kids need to sit less and move more, the two lowest grades in this year's report card are a D- for Sedentary Behaviours and a D- for Overall Physical Activity.

It was decreed, then, that access to active play in nature and outdoors—with its risks—is essential for healthy child development. They recommended increasing children's opportunities for self-directed play outdoors in all settings including at home, at school, in child care, in the community, and around nature.

Valley Family Fun can help you with all your outdoor needs. The website houses information on hikes, recreational activities, lists of playgrounds, and other ways to get moving with your family!

Make a commitment with your family to do something active every week!

WHO ARE THESE GUYS, ANYWAY?

Nova Scotia plays host to a wealth of French and German expat grapes, which are as unfamiliar to the non-wine-Einstein as are the 50 names of snow to the non-Inuit. With brutish winters and a short (but glorious) growing season, the grapes have to be hardy and swift workers.

Most at home in these lush valleys and Bay of Fundy breezes are white varietals. The cooler temperatures create mouth watering acidity with plump aromatic bodies. As a result of the delicate tannin, the red varietals are light to medium bodied, fruit driven with silky smooth texture. Without further ado...

L'Acadie Blanc (LA-ka-dee)

L'Acadie is the lead character in our Nova Scotia novel. It's the type of grape that starts doing yoga moves at a party or cartwheels in the garden after you've introduced it to your parents. It's versatile and eager to please, a piece of putty at the whim of its wine maker. Green apple crisp in its birthday suit, but can lend itself to a traditional method sparkling, malolactic fermentation, sur lie, early or late harvesting, a high or low alcohol, oak barrels or steel tanks, listens to country and experimental jazz.

It arrived in Nova Scotia as a Canadian hybrid from Ontario, nee V.53261. After abandoning its original home and more comfortably settling here, it seemed appropriate to rename it after the original settlers: the 17th century French Acadians.

As well as being a 'wine-maker's grape', it also pleases the vineyard manager by its winter hardiness, resistance to bunch rot, upright growth and as good as hands you a pair of pruners, shouting 'me! me! me!' come harvest time.

New York Muscat

A true New York cool (climate) cat. Lou Reed with a bouquet of flowers. Muscat is usually associated with sweet desert wines, but Nova Scotia creates dry, aromatic whites with a nosefull of rose petals and jasmine.

It can be a little fussy in the vineyard, with some pernickety and irregular yields - but the rosy-cheek hue on the grape wins you over. Although developed in New York, it is a cross of Hamburg and Ontario Muscat.

As opposed to gymnast L'Acadie, this grape is usually left to waft into the room on its own fragrant merit. Minimal fuss vinification with stainless steel tanks to complement the 'peaches and cream' Nova Scotia treat.

Vidal Blanc (vee-DAL)

Nature's nectar, a wine-god gift. Most commonly used for Icewine* all across Canada, due to its rhino skin which has no fear of the winter frost. Cast an eye over the family tree and you'll see Vidal is the love child of Trebbiano (Ugni Blanc) and Rayon d'Or. *That's a real word.

Seyval Blanc (say-VAL)

Grapefruit, lemon and lime with mineral zing and zang. Most commonly unoaked here in Nova Scotia, but has plenty of potential for a buttery, burgundian slap on the bottom. Cousin to our dear Vidal, with Rayon d'Or and Seibel as parents. Also commonly seen in the garden of England.

"A very loveable and dry sparkling rosé, with a bright, slightly flinty nose that also shows apple and toasted brioche. It's tasty and crisp, and I'd love to have more, please."

- Rémy Charest - National wine writer and judge.

The Reds

Maréchal Foch (MAH-re-shall fosh or foshe)

Just 'Foch' to his friends. Originally a Loire valley grape, but now more commonly grown in Canada and New York. Named after WW1 French Marshal Ferdinand Foch, who must have had an admirer in the breeder of this grape, Eugene Kulmann.

It loses no sleep over minus temperatures and brutish winters, and luckily for Nova Scotia usually ripens at the end of September.

A true chunky nose, game pie with blueberries and cherries. Its dextrous ability to complement carbonic maceration has made it comparable to Beaujolais grape, Gamay, or in its more inky-black form, Pinot Noir.

Lucie Kuhlmann (LOO-see KULL-men)

Taking its name from the daughter of hybridizer* Eugene Kulmann, Lucie is here to add a little fruitiness to Nova Scotia. She's a bellyful of berry: cranberry, blackberry, blueberry and strawberry. Combined with oak, it can be spicy and smoky little number and unlike Foch or Leon Millot, it doesn't have any green pepper

Mike, Luckett Vineyards' wine maker, likes to do a little Italian job appassiemento on her. This is partially drying the grapes before fermenting to create a concentration of flavours, which turns Lucie into stewed plums and

Marcel, our vineyard manager loves her for her reliability from year in year. 'Consistency is

Leon Millot (LEE-on MEE-low)

Usually soft and velvety in texture, Leon Millot is often likened to Pinot Noir. A sister seedling to Maréchal Foch, this grape is all purple fruit and chocolate with a little savoury bell pepper at the back of the tongue.

Its old hangout was Northern France Alsace, but is now at home in parts of the USA and Canada. We salute it for its early September ripening and resistance to fungal disease.

Three Wines Receive Award for Excellence

News from the Lieutenant Governor of Nova Scotia

Three Nova Scotian wines have been selected to receive the Lieutenant Governor's Award for Excellence in Nova Scotia Wines. The award, established by Lt.-Gov. J.J. Grant in 2014, recognizes the exceptional quality of locally sourced and produced wines, and honours the dedication and craft of those in Nova Scotia's vibrant wine industry. Through a blind tasting, an independent panel of experts chose the following wines, in no particular order, as the best among the Nova Scotia wines submitted:

L'Acadie Vineyards, Vintage Cuvée Rosé, 2011 Domaine de Grand Pré, Riesling Icewine, 2013 Gaspereau Vineyards, Riesling, 2013

"I am delighted to play a part in recognizing the wine industry in our province," said Lt.-Gov. Grant. "I offer my sincere congratulations to all the award recipients and look forward to presenting each with their medals.

Winery Association of Nova Scotia and Taste of Nova Scotia members were invited to submit up to three commercially available wines with 100 per cent Nova Scotia content.

"The Winery Association of Nova Scotia is pleased to see the winners of Lieutenant Governor's Awards for Excellence in Nova Scotia Wines announced," said Gillian Mainguy, Manager, Winery Association of Nova Scotia. "Congratulations to winemakers Jürg Stutz, Gina Haverstock, and Bruce Ewert, they should all be very proud of their wines. And a tip of the hat to Jürg Stutz and the Domaine de Grand Pre team on this being their second win of this prestigious award!"

The award ceremony will include the unveiling of the new Lieutenant Governor's Award for Excellence in Nova Scotia Wines badge granted by the Governor General and the new Wine Award Gold Medal.

Bulwark Cider wins a gold medal at Canadian Brewing Awards

Gabrielle Pope, Muwin Estate Wines

Muwin Estate Wine's line of Bulwark ciders grew to include another variety late last year with the soft launch of Bulwark Gold cider. The Gold cider features a smooth hint of honey and an exotic-tasting flavour, due to its unique blend of apples with the light addition of honey. The cider enjoyed immediate success following its launch at NSLC stores, and was soon popular on tap at some of Halifax's best bars and restaurants.

Now in its tenth year as the only national brewing competition, the Canadian Brewing Awards decided to open up the competition categories to include ciders. In the blind tasting for Best Specialty Cider, Bulwark's Traditional Gold Cider took gold. Tasted by certified judges and taking into consideration aroma, flavour, appearance, mouth-feel, and overall impression of the beer or cider; a CBA Gold is widely recognized as an achievement of brewing excellence.

A fifth variety of Bulwark cider will launch in the fall—Nova Scotia's first craft hopped cider.

HERE AND AWAY: Protected areas

Pamela Swanigai

Protected areas include national and provincial parks, nature reserves, agricultural land-use zones, heritage rivers, and protected marine zones. International figures are from 2012. Figures have been rounded.

 $\textbf{CANADA} \hbox{: } 108.8 \hbox{ million hectares (269 million acres), } 8.6\%.$

Nova Scotia: As of the end of 2013, the province had 462,014 hectares (1.14 million acres), or 8.36% of its total landmass, protected. This comprised 459,797 terrestrial and 2,217 marine hectares. However, the 2007 Environmental Goals and Sustainable Prosperity Act of 2007 (under Conservative premier Rodney MacDonald) legally committed the Nova Scotia government to protect 12% of the land by 2015, and the Dexter government's 2013 Parks and Protected Areas Plan committed the province to protect an additional 250,000 hectares, which, when implemented, will bring the total amount of protected Nova Scotia area to 14%. Between 2014 and 2015, Nova Scotia created 8 new protected wilderness areas and 9 nature reserves, as well as expanding 9 already protected areas, for a total of 32,766 hectares of newly protected land (about half the size of Kejimkujik National Park). Updated total figures for the province are unavailable.

Aylesford Mountain Conservation Lands

This 383 acre site was donated by Mildred Clem. Determined to preserve some of the wild areas she had roamed as a child, Clem donated this land to the Nova Scotia Nature Trust. To access this area, take Hwy 101 to Exit 15, turning north onto Hwy 360. At the four-way intersection, turn left onto Hwy 221 west. Take a right onto Long Point Road. Follow it north, turning west onto Brow Mountain Road and eventually right onto Nollet Beckwith Road. Drive in as far as possible. This area offers a mixed forest, maple grove, overgrown meadows, and several old foundations

Shingle Mills Falls

Aylesford

To access this trail, take Exit 15 on the Hwy 101 and turn left onto Hwy 360. Drive south 2.7km and turn right onto Hwy 1, continuing for 6.3km. Turn left on Aylesford Road and drive 11km to a service road on the right. During the summer months, it it possible to drive a further 4km along that road and park there. This trail is approximately 2km in length and covers a gravel road and rocky terrain towards a waterfall with hard and soft woods, ferns, and mossy rocks and boulders along the way.

Black Rock Community Trails

Black Rock

This trail starts at the Black Rock Community Hall on Black Rock Road. With four loops and approximately 20km of trail, this hike can take upwards of five hours. Trails are marked with coloured marking tape and the shore trail has to be done at low tides. Officially opened in 2003, these trails are located on private land, but the public is welcome to use them, as long as they are respectful of the land.

Saunders Brook Falls and Natural Seacaves

Harhourville

From Hwy 101, take Exit 15 and turn right onto Hwy 360 towards Harbourville. Turn right onto Russia Road and travel 0.6km to a large hill. Look for a dirt road on the right just past a brook. Park here and take the dirt road down to the beach. The brook should run at your left. A small waterfall flows into the Bay of Fundy and the beach area. This 3km hike should take about an hour. It follows the Bay of Fundy coastline lined by 100-200 foot cliffs and two waterfalls. Across the water, Cape Chignecto is visible off in the distance as well as Cape D'Or and Ile Haute. Check tide times before setting out and wear shoes with a good tread to accommodate the slippery rocks.

Changes Coming to the Sunday Hunting Rules

Department of Natural Resources

The rules around Sunday hunting are changing. The Department of Natural Resources is lifting the ban on Sunday hunting for all wildlife except moose for the first two Sundays of general deer hunting season. This year, Sunday hunting will be allowed November 1 and November 8.

Natural Resources Minister Zach Churchill made the decision after an extensive public consultation and discussions with stakehold-

"Nova Scotia's natural resources are here for everyone to enjoy and use in a sustainable manner," said Natural Resources Minister Zach Churchill. "After a public consultation and discussions with stakeholders about a range of options, I wanted to find a balance on this issue that would take everyone's positions into account. Allowing hunting on the first two Sundays of general hunting season achieves this balance."

Amendments to the Wildlife Act regulations will also clarify the distance hunters need to stay back from Christmas tree and agricultural operations. Amendments will also make it easier for hunters to help farmers deal with nuisance wildlife.

Public safety was an important consideration in the decision. Hunting accidents are rare in Nova Scotia and almost never involve non-hunters. There will be an awareness campaign closer to hunting season to help ensure Nova Scotians know about the Sunday hunting change.

Landowner rights was an area of interest during consultations. Hunters are strongly urged to respect landowners' wishes about hunting on private property.
