RANDALL HOUSE

Wendy Elliott

Randall House, which serves as Wolfville’s community museum, is in trouble. Built in 1786, the two-and-one-half storey, wooden Georgian style farmhouse, located adjacent to Willow Park, has serious structural issues. The fabric of the exterior, the chimneys, the roof, gutters, windows and trim all need replacement or repair. The Wolfville Historical Society (WHS) had put aside funds to do the roof work, but a heritage construction consultant sent up an overall warning flag last month.

The second oldest house in Wolfville is situated on a hill overlooking what used to be a bustling harbour, and to the west of what was once Mud Creek. Charles Randall purchased the house in 1812 and it stayed in his family for 115 years.

Retired farmer Charles Patriquin bought the property in 1927. He had a robust vegetable garden that became a local attraction and maintained a duck pond where local children spent many happy hours. In 1947, he sold the house to the Wolfville Historical Society, and it became a museum. In 1987 the house won status as a Nova Scotia Provincial Heritage Property.

In its current role, Randall House chronicles the every-day lives of people living in the Wolfville area at different historical periods and from all classes of society. Original interior elements, such as a bake oven, flooring and seven fireplaces, are still intact. The town offers annual financial support.

For over 70 years, citizens have donated their time and money for the museum’s preservation. Many have contributed furnishings and items to its diverse exhibits. In 2021, the WHS carried out a positive community and membership survey around Randall House. But COVID-19 has had a negative effect both on membership and fundraising. Community gatherings and social events were hosted each summer prior to the pandemic, for example, but now future planning looks bleak.

Katherine Ryan, who leads the Randall House Museum management committee, has researched the situation and states, “If we are to call ourselves a museum, we have an ethical duty to conserve our collection. Any item that we have accepted, including the museum, was given to us in a trust arrangement with the understanding that it is a valuable part of our town’s history and that its condition needs to be preserved to the best of our ability.” Randall House needs an immediate influx of energy or finances or both. The situation is challenging and WHS president Martin Hallett would appreciate some input from the wider community.

A NEW YEAR WITH NEW SHOWS IN THE VALLEY!

Mike Butler

Mamma Mia with Quick as a Wink Theatre

Gimme Gimme Gimme your attention! The hit musical Mamma Mia is coming to the Valley through Quick as a Wink Theatre Society and it's going to be out of this world! Are you Dancing Queens ready to have an Abba-licious time? Well, with a cast of three dozen local actors, great music, incredible costumes and the fun and energy of 70's Disco, this show is bound to start your new year off on a high note. The team that brought you Grease and Shrek; Mike Butler the director, Mike Nelson the music director and producers Dave and Jeannie Myles, Mamma Mia will have you dancing in the aisles and laughing long after the curtains close.

The premise is much like those Greek comedic tragedies of old; Sophie Sheridan is getting married and, although her mother Donna has raised her since birth, Sophie longs to meet her father. She invites not one, but three of the men of her mother's past; Sam, Bill & Harry who think they're on a Greek vacation but instead it becomes a quest for paternity in this very funny musical set to the tunes of Abba including Under Attack, Take a Chance on Me, Honey, Honey and so many more! Put on your platform shoes, don some glitter, and bell bottoms and come to Windsor to meet your Waterloo.

You don't want to miss this show!

Showtimes are January 27th, 28th, February 3rd and 4th at 7 pm with Matinees January 28, 29 & February 4th at 2pm. Performances are at the Kings-Edgehill Performing Arts Center, Windsor and tickets can be purchased through www.qaaw.ca. Tickets are selling fast for this show!

Jonas & Barry take CentreStage Theatre

Norm Foster's quick wit is strong in this lighthearted buddy comedy about living life to its fullest.

Barry is annoyed that he's already living in a seniors' home at sixty-seven, but it's worth it to live near his daughter, Rosie.

Rosie, who works at the home, brought him in so he wouldn't be alone in case he has a heart attack like his father, brother, and uncle did before they were sixty-five.

So, Barry spends his time shuffling around in his slippers, taking naps, and having dinner with Rosie, and that's good enough for him.

But Barry doesn't get to revel in the quiet for long. Enter the loquacious and flirtatious Jonas, who wrote one hit song thirty-seven years ago. Jonas likes to indulge in the finer things in life, like decadent dates and nice clothes, and he sees Barry the curmudgeon as a fixer upper. As they bicker and bond over women, sports, and family values, Jonas and Barry must learn to open-up and face how to keep living their lives.

Norm Foster comedies have graced the CentreStage boards before with the hit shows Old Love, The Long Weekend, Here on the Flight Path, The Ladies Foursome and Looking. Audiences have fallen in love with the quick wit, sharp one-liners, and the underlying sweetness of Norm's characters and Jonas and Barry in the Home is no exception. Jonas & Barry in the Home is Directed by Junie Hutchinson and Lilly Ashdown and stars Alan Tupper, John Smith, and Emily Burton.

Showtimes are Friday and Saturday evenings at 7:30pm January 13, 14, 20, 21, 27, 28, February 3, 4, 10, 11, 17, 18 with Sunday Matinees at 2pm January 22 and February 5th. Tickets are $18.00 for adults and $15.00 for Student & Seniors. It is strongly recommended that you call 902-678-8040 to hold your seats as this is bound to be a sold-out hit, filled with laughter, fun poignancy.

NEW YEAR'S ECO-LUTIONS

Krista McDonald & Rachael Butcher

Want to be more planet friendly in 2023?

New Year's resolutions are great in theory, but often fall apart in practice if our goals are unattainable (or have anything to do with eating less carbs). Create a manageable list of actionable items and make sure to record your progress to reinforce the impact you are having.

Changes to habits are better kept when we take a moment to recognize that we are making progress, no matter how small.

Here are some Earth Friendly Resolutions:

1. Research single-use plastic alternatives and find some swaps that fit your lifestyle & your budget
2. Buy in bulk whenever possible
3. No more produce bags! There are lots of reusable options but if you do end up with plastic bags, make sure you repurpose them
4. Bring your own cutlery & reusable travel mug
5. Keep jars & plastic containers for refilling;
6. Keep a stash near the door to ensure you have them handy when you head out
7. Shop local & shop small as often as possible
8. Meal plan to reduce food waste
9. Do some thrifting! Fast fashion is awful for the environment, and there is nothing like the thrill of the hunt!

10. Learn to fix or mend your possessions or find others who can - the only way to stop throw away culture is to stop throwing everything away

The new year is a time for reflection and hopeful contemplation of the year ahead. If you have resolved to walk softer on the Earth in 2023 and beyond, there are many easy steps to take.

Your success will mean the world!

Rob Brezsky's
FREE WILL ASTROLOGY

© 2023 Rob Brezsky • freewillastrology.com • Horoscopes for the week of January 5th

ARIES (March 21-April 19): "My life was the best omelet you could make with a chainsaw," observed flamboyant author Thomas McGuane. That's a witty way to encapsulate his tumultuous destiny. There have been a few moments in 2022 when you might have been tempted to invoke a similar metaphor about your own evolving story. But the good news is that your most recent chainsaw-made omelet is finished and ready to eat. I think you'll find its taste is savory. And I believe it will nourish you for a long time. (Soon it will be time to start your next omelet, maybe without using the chainsaw this time!)

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): After meticulous research of 2023's astrological omens, I have come to a radical conclusion: You should tell the people who care for you that you'd like to be called by new pet names. I think you need to intensify their ability and willingness to view you as a sublime creature worthy of adoration. I don't necessarily recommend you use old standbys like "cutie," "honey," "darling," or "angel." I'm more in favor of unique and charismatic versions, something like "Jubilee" or "Zestie" or "Fantasmo" or "Yowie-Wowie." Have fun coming up with pet names that you are very fond of. The more, the better.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): If I could choose some fun and useful projects for you to master in 2023, they would include the following: 1. Be in constant competition with yourself to outdo past accomplishments. But at the same time, be extra compassionate toward yourself. 2. Borrow and steal other people's good ideas and use them with even better results than they would use them. 3. Acquire an emerald or two, or wear jewelry that features emeralds. 4. Increase your awareness of and appreciation for birds. 5. Don't be attracted to folks who aren't good for you just because they are unusual or interesting. 6. Upgrade your flirting so it's even more nuanced and amusing, while at the same time you make sure it never violates anyone's boundaries.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): When she was young, Carolane Forché was a conventional poet focused on family and childhood. But she transformed. Relocating to El Salvador during its civil war, she began to write about political trauma. Next, she lived in Lebanon during its civil war. She witnessed firsthand the tribulations of military violence and the imprisonment of activists. Her creative work increasingly illuminated questions of social justice. At age 72, she is now a renowned human rights advocate. In bringing her to your attention, I don't mean to suggest that you engage in an equally dramatic self-reinvention. But in 2023, I do recommend drawing on her as an inspirational role model. You will have great potential to discover deeper aspects of your life's purpose—and enhance your understanding of how to offer your best gifts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Are the characters in Carlos Castañeda's books on shamanism fictional or real? It doesn't matter to me. I love the wisdom of his alleged teacher, Don Juan Matus. He said, "Look at every path closely and deliberately. Try it as many times as you think necessary. Then ask yourself, and yourself alone, one question. Does this path have a heart? If it does, the path is good; if it doesn't, it is of no use." Don Juan's advice is perfect for you in the coming nine months, Leo. I hope you will tape a copy of his words on your bathroom mirror and read it at least once a week.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Teacher and author Byron Katie claims, "The voice within is what I'm married to. My lover is the place inside me where an honest yes and no come from." I happen to know that she has also been married for many years to a writer named Stephen Mitchell. So she has no problem being wed to both Mitchell and her inner voice. In accordance with astrological omens, I invite you to propose marriage to your own inner voice. The coming year will be a fabulous time to deepen your relationship with this crucial source of useful and sacred revelation

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Libran philosopher Friedrich Nietzsche offered advice that is perfect for you in 2023. It's strenuous. It's demanding and daunting. If you take it to heart, you will have to perform little miracles you may not yet have the confidence to try. But I have faith in you, Libra. That's why I don't hesitate to provide you with Nietzsche's rant: "No one can build you the bridge on which you, and only you, must cross the river of life. There may be countless trails and bridges and demigods who would gladly carry you across; but only at the price of pawning and forgoing yourself. There is one path in the world that none can walk but you. Where does it lead? Don't ask, walk!"

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): How might you transform the effects of the limitations you've been dealing with? What could you do to make it work in your favor as 2023 unfolds? I encourage you to think about these question with daring and audacity. The more moxie you summon, the greater your luck will be in making the magic happen. Here's another riddle to wrestle with: What surrender or sacrifice could you initiate that might lead in unforeseen ways to a plucky breakthrough? I have a sense that's what will transpire as you weave your way through the coming months in quest of surprising opportunities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Sagittarian singer Tina Turner confided, "My greatest beauty secret is being happy with myself." I hope you will experiment with that formula in 2023. I believe the coming months will potentially be a time when you will be happier with yourself than you have ever been before—more at peace with your unique destiny, more accepting of your unripe qualities, more in love with your depths, and more committed to treating yourself with utmost care and respect. Therefore, if Tina Turner is accurate, 2023 will also be a year when your beauty will be ascendant.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): "I'm homesick all the time," writes author Sarah Addison Allen. "I just don't know where home is. There's this promise of happiness out there. I know it. I even feel it sometimes. But it's like chasing the moon. Just when I think I have it, it disappears into the horizon." If you have ever felt pangs like hers, Capricorn, I predict they will fade in 2023. That's because I expect you will clearly identify the feeling of home you want—and thereby make it possible to find and create the place, the land, and the community where you will experience a resounding peace and stability.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Storyteller Michael Meade tells us, "The ship is always off course. Anybody who sails knows that. Sailing is being off-course and correcting. That gives a sense of what life is about." I interpret Meade's words to mean that we are never in a perfect groove heading directly towards our goal. We are constantly deviating from the path we might wish we could follow with unfailing accuracy. That's not a bug in the system; it's a feature. And as long as we obsess on the idea that we're not where we should be, we are distracted from doing our real work. And the real work? The ceaseless corrections. I hope you will regard what I'm saying here as one of your core meditations in 2023, Aquarius.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): A Chinese proverb tells us, "Great souls have wills. Feeble souls have wishes." I guess that's true in an abstract way. But in practical terms, most of us are a mix of both great and feeble. We have a modicum of willpower and a bundle of wishes. In 2023, though, you Pisceans could make dramatic moves to strengthen your willpower as you shed wimpy wishes. In my psychic vision of your destiny, I see you feeding metaphorical iron supplements to your resolve and determination.

Homework: Visualize in intricate detail a breakthrough you would like to experience by July 2023.

107 MEALS SERVED AT WOLFFVILLE CHRISTMAS COMMUNITY DINNER

Margot Bishop

Thank you to everyone who made the resurrected Wolffville Holiday Dinner a success this Christmas.

When the dinner was changed to a takeaway in 2020 due to Coivd and then cancelled, we thought that the tradition started by Anna Anderson and George Pickford over 12 years ago would reach its demise.

However, thanks to an outpouring of support from our volunteers, we did it again as a take-away. The Rotary Club provided funding, and Carl Jr. from Carl's Independent provided turkeys. Jeff's Longspell Point Farm at Kingsport donated over 200 lbs of vegetables. Onions from Nova Agri, pears from Noggins, apples from Stirlings. The Lion's club allowed us to use their hall and equipment. Rev. Ruth opened her church for fellowship on Christmas Day so that people alone could go and be with others. Volunteers stayed late on Christmas Eve and Christmas Day to ensure everything was washed, cleaned, and put away.

Krystal handled all the emails and online orders, ran around picking up supplies, and organized the volunteers who prepared all the vegetables. One hundred seven meals were either picked up or delivered.

We want to thank everyone who helped make this possible. The true spirit of kindness and generosity was alive and well in Wolffville this year.

JOB POSTING:
Director of Finance

The Director of Finance is an exciting, full-time role for a local government finance professional with strong interpersonal skills and the ability to work well with others across multiple departments. We are looking for candidates with strong leadership skills and the ability to foster and support a positive work environment for the finance department and to the greater Town of Kentville team.

If you are looking for a collaborative team setting, working closely with others to achieve collective goals and objectives while having a little fun, this is the place for you! If you are a big picture thinker who values the collective achievement of a greater team, then we want to see your application.

Please send a cover letter and resume to CAD@kentville.ca or mail to Town of Kentville CAD, 354 Main Street Kentville, Nova Scotia B4N 3K6. This competition will remain open until the position is filled.

WHO'S WHO
DAPHNE GREER: BETWEEN THE PAGES!

Mike Butler

I Love Books! I read many genres, and I especially love supporting local authors. I was very excited when I learned last year that author Daphne Greer is from this area and has a new book released soon called Jacob's Dilemma. As soon as I heard, I ordered her other efforts and read through those in anticipation of this new release, and then I decided to include Daphne in my Grapevine column, and here we are!

Daphne Greer was born in Victoria, BC. Her dad was in the Navy, so they moved around a fair bit, but Nova Scotia is her home. She states, "In my preteen years, we moved to Belgium. During my second year there, I transferred to a convent run by Ursuline nuns to return to Canada with a little more French than I had learned at the International School of Brussels." One of my stories, 'Finding Grace,' was set in the convent I attended just outside Brussels. Looking back, I learned more about resilience than mastering the French language. I graduated with a Bachelor of Child Studies from MSVU, specializing in Developmental Disabilities. My husband Ken and I have four amazing daughters who are finding their way into the world. We're also blessed to be grandparents and lucky enough to live close by to our little sweet peas."

Residence, supporting nine adults in living their best lives. She retired in June of 2022 to spend more time with her parents. Her writing career evolved organically twenty years ago when she was trying to find a picture book for her cousin's son, who was having trouble understanding his older brother, who lives with Autism. When she couldn't find an acceptable one, she decided to write one herself.

She stated, "I enjoyed the process of writing but didn't think anything more about it once I had finished and sent the story off as a gift.

I was a busy mom, working full time, and then I got pregnant with our fourth daughter and ended up in the hospital on bed rest for several months. One day while in the hospital, I. was watching TV and became memorized by an interview with a young mother who had been born without arms. My jaw dropped when I watched her navigate getting her baby out of the crib and later driving her children in her car. All with her feet. I was so moved I wrote a story called, 'The best mom ever.' During my time in the hospital, I wrote about seven picture books. I quickly learned that while I had discovered the joy of writing, I now had to learn how to write and craft a story worth publishing. So, I enrolled in back-to-back courses at the Writers Federation of Nova Scotia, and the rest is a nice piece of history."

Daphne's book, Maxed Out, became a nominee by the American Library Association for their quick read category and is still finding new readers to this day. She also wrote Camped Out and Finding Grace.

The last two years have been spent keeping her family, workplace, and parents safe and sound while Covid swirled around them. Her writing, however, was put on hold as she needed more energy to give it any attention. Thankfully her manuscript for Jacob's Dilemma had been sent off and accepted two years ago, and because edits were scheduled in August of 2022, she knew she had a grace period. I am beyond excited to get my hands on this book.

Jacob's Dilemma is a sequel to Jacob's Landing but is a stand-alone story. Daphne spilled the beans on the story, stating, "The anticipated middle-grade follow-up to my award-winning Jacob's Landing finds Jacob trapped in a moral dilemma when his biological mom tracks him down just when he's about to be adopted. Thirteen-year-old Jacob has settled into life in Newport Landing with his grandparents after the sudden death of his father. His foster mother, Maggie, is getting ready to move to the province and adopt him; he has a close friend, Ruby, who lives nearby; and oh, yes—he recently found a literal fortune, and he, his family, and the boat museum nearby are set for life. After the local paper publishes an article about his lucky find and generous donation to the museum, Jacob's life is turned upside down again. His mother, who left him, and his father so long ago Jacob can't remember her, finds him."

Jacob's Dilemma will be available in the Spring of 2023. It can be pre-ordered online through Amazon, and local bookstores should all carry it when it's in print. Make sure you grab a copy!

Daphne's website is www.daphnegreer.com, and she can be found on Facebook, Instagram @daphnegreerr and twitter.@daphne_greer.

Thanks to Daphne for taking the time to be the first Who's Who of 2023. All the best with your endeavours, and thank you for creating such wonderful stories! Take care!

BOOKS BY LOCALS

Congratulations to Grand Pre resident Sylvia Hamilton, whose latest poetry collection ‘tender’ was a recommended book by Quill and Quire. Hamilton has shared narratives through art installations, documentary films, essays and more. With ‘tender’, she turns to poetry to explore and chronicle the experiences of Black women.

Hamilton examines Black women, in their quest for self- determination and their desire to live full, complex, unencumbered lives. Employing her skills as a filmmaker, she combines reclaimed historical accounts, such as Judy Hamilton’s from 1833. She uses memories and stories to examine intergenerational trauma, racial violence, the silencing of girls and women, and the loss of children. Her publisher suggests, “Running throughout her work is a yearning for genuine equality and freedom, and an understanding that a better future begins with engaging honestly with our past.”

Hamilton’s last book of poems was entitled, ‘And I Alone Escaped to Tell You.’ It was also published by Gaspereau Press in 2014.

Monoculture

Sue Goyette’s latest book ‘Monoculture’ is uniquely formatted. Her turn at the podium at the Gaspereau Press Wayzgoose this past fall proved just that as she handed pages out with sections for a collective reading. Monoculture imagines that Nova Scotia’s last surviving stand of intact forest has been preserved for the enjoyment of the public. Coming a year after the volunteers camped out on the logging road in Annapolis County, Goyette’s multidimensional work is uber timely.

Framing the text as visitors’ comments posted on the forest’s official website, the Halifax-based Goyette speaks through a chorus of voices to explore the varied attitudes that permeate our relationship with the natural world - from destructive harvesting practices to our expectations about outdoor recreation and leisure. This unique work takes its cue both from the incessant chatter of social media and from the long slog of a map-less hike, showing how a little scrap of wilderness can still unsettle and disorient us, humble and astonish us, and open its truths to us, says Andrew Steeves. It must be said that the books produced by Steeves and Gary Dunfield of Gaspereau Press in Kentville are works of art in themselves. The paper has substance and the covers heft. They are well designed and artfully printed.

A Sure Cure for Witchcraft

Fiction writer Laura Best was pleased to hear from her publisher recently that her middle-grade novel ‘A Sure Cure for Witchcraft’ had made the Canadian Children’s Book Centre’s Best Books for Kids and Teens, fall 2022 list.

Best, who lives in East Dalhousie, created a compelling novel that is bound to capture the imagination of readers from the beginning. In present-day New Germany, five-year-old Lilly begins to tell stories that her mother is convinced come from an overactive imagination. But the child Lilly insists that they are memories from before the life she is living now. The stories stop, but as Lilly grows up, she starts to have vivid dreams set in Württemberg, Germany during the mid-1700s. Nimbus Publishing has released seven of Best’s novels, starting in 2009.

MARGOT’S HIDDEN GEMS

Margot Bishop

A New Year and New Beginnings. Many people make new year’s resolutions and fail to keep them, and it is possible that they need to be more realistic.

Do not set yourself up to fail. If you want to make favourable resolutions, ensure they can be kept, and make them simple and specific.

Here are a few of my suggestions:

1. Focus on something other than eating healthier; instead, think about drinking eight glasses of water daily or eating at least three fruits or vegetables daily.
2. Walk one block a day for one week and then walk two the next week!
3. Start your day with a smile, even if it is just for yourself.
4. Wear bright colours; they will always cheer you up.
5. Start taking a new class or starting a hobby! There are many groups to join for all ages, and there are classes for just about everything. Your library is a great place to start! Your town recreation department is an excellent source of information on bike and hiking trails for the outdoor enthusiast. Art and music classes, memory and fitness sessions, all sorts of fun activities are available. Maybe you have always had a (hidden) wish to play a musical instrument. Try out instructions online or join a beginner class. Remember at first if the music is not melodious, it is at the very least Joyful. Check out What’s Happening on pages 12-13 to get started!
6. New is good but remember old traditions. What is old to some may be new to others, and vice versa. Introduce or re-invent a game, pastime or activity to someone or a group that does not know it. Having a tea or hot chocolate party in the backyard. Play twister’, marking the snow with food colouring. Make scented clove balls to hang in the storage closet. Learn or relearn a card game. Look up an old recipe and modernize it.
7. Control things in your life; do not let others dictate your personal ideas or goals. If you want to try something, let your imagination be your guide. Do not try things that could hurt you or others, but be creative and connect with that inner (sometimes hidden) strength.
8. Set aside time for yourself. Do things that give you pleasure.

Finish that project you started and did not finish, read a book you like the sound of, or just sit and meditate. Your hidden strengths and ideas make you the unique person you are. Do not ‘hide’ yourself, let yourself soar with new and beautiful feelings of self-worth and wonder.

Stay safe and try new things or make old things seem like new again. Have a wonderful New Year!

ART IN THE LIBRARIES

The Annapolis Valley Regional Library offers plenty of options for aspiring and established artists, and art appreciators! Here are some examples of what's happening in your local branches this month:

BERWICK: Local artist Delaine Carlson's multimedia works are on display.

KINGSTON: In 2022 eight of Nova Scotia's public library systems teamed up to offer simplified access to their combined collections. The result is Same Page, a "super library" of nearly a million items available to borrow.

The Kingston Library and 7Arts is asking artists ages 12-18 to imagine what access to Same Page means to them in an art show titled "Being on the Same Page".

Submissions are due January 14 and will be on public display in February. The opening is on January 20 from 4-6pm at the library.

On January 21 from 11am-1pm, 7Arts is offering a free Same Page art workshop for teens. Registration required.

MIDDLETON: Calling all artists! We are seeking submissions on the theme "What is a Library? A place? An emotion? An archive? A memory?" Any format that can be hung on a wall is welcome. Deadline is January 21.

The art will be on public display in February and March.

Teen Artist Hub: Every Friday, 3:45-4:45pm from January to March, youth ages 12-18 are encouraged to come explore their passion for art. Registration required.

Painternoons: 3:30-5pm January 17, February 14, March 14. Ages 18+. Celebrate the colours of spring with instructor Kathy Williams. All materials supplied. Registration required.

WOLFVILLE: On January 8 drop into the library between 2-4pm to watch local textile artist Debbie Tucker demonstrate rug hooking. You can also give it a try! A collection of locally hooked rugs is on display until February 6.

For more information visit www.valleylibrary.ca or call your local branch.
